Officer Doyle: Killed on Duty

By FRANK LaPIERRE

The fog swirled around the Christmas lights that festooned storefronts and saloons along Daly City's lower Mission Street that chilly December night in 1936. Cars inched their way along the thoroughfare and slowed to a near halt where the road intersected with Market Street.

Fog seldom built up thick in these parts during the winter, and on December 19 residents considered it unusual. It was not a good night for man nor beast to be out.

The clanging of the Line 40 high speed railroad car, that began its run in San Francisco at the corner of Fifth and Mission and terminated in San Mateo, was muffled by the mist.

It was a specially-designed car and while it ran on trolley tracks it was definitely not a trolley in any sense of the word. It was a big lumbering car that wasted little time in getting to its destination.

Its reputation for speed was a well established fact in Daly City.

During rush hours the four man police department would assign one of its members to control traffic in the area. Actually the policeman's duty was to clear the way for the Line 40 car as it barreled through the intersection on its scheduled run down the middle of Mission Street.

Chief Jack Doyle pulled the 4-8 p.m. traffic shift that foggy night. Like the other three officers, he was well versed in what was expected of him and the layout of the area. He could, experts agreed, find a penny in the dark.

At 6 p.m. he lay dying in the middle of Mission Street.

What had happened? Was Doyle struck by a passing motor vehicle and thrown into the path of the trolley as several witnesses swore? Or had he caught his foot in the tracks while stepping out of the way of the oncoming train.

"The train went like hell down Mission Street in those days," Officer Dave Johnstone recalls.

And he recalls Doyle — the first officer to lose his life in the line of duty in Daly City.

"He was tough. All the kids respected him," Johnstone said. "I was only a kid, but I remember he would throw his nightstick at you if you tried to run from him. It would clip you on the ankle and down you'd go."

Doyle was described by two of his fellow officers of that era, James Riordan and Ricco Benedetti, as "a very competent officer."

Edwards Quits Jeff Campaign

James Barry Edwards, considered by political pollsters to be the front-running candidate for a seat on the Jefferson Elementary School District Board of Trustees, has stepped out of the April race.

The surprise announcement was made during an exclusive interview with the Post Saturday amidst rumors Edwards had accepted an out-of-town position with the Southwestern Bell System.

Through his campaign manager, Ron Denman, Edwards issued the following:

"It is with sincere regret that I must withdraw my candidacy from the (JESD) trustees race. I have been offered and have decided to accept a rewarding and challenging position with the Southwestern Bell System.

"As much as I am concerned with the problems that face the school district, I would be remiss if I did not put the welfare and financial security of my family first.

"This community has been good to me and I appreciate the opportunity I had to serve it. I decided to run for the school board because I felt that there were serious problems facing the district. Those problems still exist and some solutions must be found for them.

"Some strong positive steps must be taken and the bitterness that has plagued the district must be eliminated," Edwards said.

Edwards has lived in Daly City since 1966. He had widespread support for the post he was running for and had expended much time and money in seeking election to the seat vacated by the resignation of William Schumacher.

The candidate, an employe of the Pacific Telephone Company, came onto the school scene during the teachers' strike several months ago.

James B. Edwards

The withdrawal of Edwards from the race, although his name will remain on the ballot which has already been printed, leaves only two candidates — Mrs. Ruth Galindo and James Cranna.

Another Ribbon Cutting

Dedication ceremonies sponsored by the City of Daly City and the Daly City Chamber of Commerce will be held for the new Routes 1 and 35 Interchange in Daly City on Thursday, March 30, at 11 a.m.

The public is invited to attend. The ceremonies which will mark completion of twenty years of cooperative effort between Daly City and the state in the planning and development of freeway routes in Daly City, will include the traditional ribbon cutting as part of the program. Persons wishing to attend this event, which will be held in the northbound lanes of Route 35 on the Interchange bridge structure above Route 1, should enter the new northbound Route 35 roadway just north of Hickey Boulevard. Signs will be in place to direct motorists to the ceremony site.

The official ceremonies are being held at this time since traffic will begin using the new roadways and most of the new interchange ramps on Easter Sunday. The entire project, however, will not be completed for several more months.

This $4,800,000 project was begun in August, 1970. The work being done includes extending Route 1, the Cabrillo Highway, from St. Francis Boulevard to southwest of Route 35; constructing Route 35 on new alignment from Hickey Boulevard to 0.3 mile northwest of new Route 1; and construction of a new, safer and faster interchange between Routes 1 and 35. The state's contractor on the project is the firm of Freeman-Sondgroth Company and the Lew Jones Construction Company.

The opening of these new sections of highway will bring immediate benefits to Daly City and the motoring public by removing through traffic from the Daly City streets and providing a more direct route to Route 35, Pacifica and the coastside.

Bruno Jail Beatings Lead To Lockup

A cellblock containing 75 inmates was under security lockup at San Francisco's main county jail at San Bruno this week after racial violence and beating of six inmates.

Sheriff's Capt. William Davis said the six white inmates were beaten by Chicano prisoners Tuesday night and four required hospital treatment.

Two suspected attackers have been placed in isolation and the incident was under investigation, he said.

"If we're not able to determine who was involved in the attacks, we'll continue the security lockup of the tier for awhile," said Undersheriff Reuben Greenberg.

Business Protection Is Asked

The Daly City Council breezed through its regular session Monday, completing action on 17 items in less than an hour.

Mission Merchants Association president Vince Merlo appeared before the council asking for aid in the merchants' fight to provide added protection for businesses along the shopping street.

He said the area had been hit with two armed robberies and a number of break-in burglaries in recent weeks and merchants were becoming nervous concerning the situation.

The council plans to work together with the merchants in an effort to solve the problem.

In other action, the council:

—Approved a use permit allowing construction of a parking lot in a partially R-1 zoned area at the south side of Knowles Avenue abutting property at 6422 Mission Street.

—Accepted grant deeds from Suburban Realty Company and the Chinese Cemetery Association for a roadway. The matter had been pending for several years.

—Authorized appointment of City Attorney Albert Polonsky as hearing officer for the Garden Valley Storm Drain project controversy. A public hearing on the subject was set for April 6 at 7:30 p.m. at the City Hall, Ninetieth and Sullivan Avenues.

—Passed two ordinances dealing with sale of Christmas trees in the city, and amending the law to allow sale of certain animals.

No Union

Walgreen food employees in the new Tanforan Shopping Center store, San Bruno, this week voted overwhelmingly to go with the company program and not unionize their group.

By a vote of 14 to 4, the eligible employes decided the issue of whether to join Local 640, Bartenders and Culinary Workers or remain with the Walgreen Company program for employes.

D.C. Union Endorses Schumacher

The Political Action Committee of the Daly City Municipal Employees Union, Local 919, has announced their endorsement of Bill Schumacher for City Councilman.

The Union, comprised of Daly City Municipal Employees, stated that the singular endorsement of Schumacher was by a unanimous vote of their membership.

"Our representatives who attended the COPE meetings were impressed by the presentation made by Bill Schumacher. He demonstrated a sincere concern for the public employees' welfare. As a former city employee for seven years, he is committed to improving our fringe benefits and seeing that all employees are treated with dignity and respect," the endorsement read.

At the regular union meeting of Local 919, the attending membership, after much consideration, unanimously voted to endorse Schumacher for City Councilman.

Local 919 will be joined with the Daly City Firefighter's Union, Local 1879.

Land Sale Concern Expressed

San Bruno city councilmen Monday night expressed concern over sale by the Division of Highways of two slivers of surplus land on the northern dead-end of Third Avenue, next to Freeway 380.

Discussion over the land was the highlight of a record-short meeting of the San Bruno City Council.

The meeting was over at 8:32 p.m. — just under an hour, since the meeting was started 8:36, opening late because the pre-meeting caucus, starting at 7 p.m., ran a bit overtime.

Short meetings are common just before elections; the next meeting will take place the nigh before election, on April 10.

City Mgr. Gerald Minford reported that the land was unsuitable for miniparks, as had been suggested at the last city council meeting because of its size and its location. He did admit, however, that although smaller than the required 5000 square feet for a normal building site, the land was zoned R-1 and could be used for single family homes. Although the sale took place last Wednesday, he had received no report yet of whether the lots had been sold.

"We have enough property in the city that is substandard, already," Mayor Maury Hamilton observed.

Councilman Tony Governale suggested zoning the land under the newly created zoning, "O" for open space. Minford will further investigate the lots.

Councilmen rejected a $60,000 claim by five members of the Hernandez family. They alleged that they were injured as Mrs. Raquel Hernandez, 35, 229 North San Anselmo Avenue, turned into Huntington Avenue at Georgia last December 2 and a police car, chasing a speeder, ran into her car.

They awarded the contract for building an underground fire alarm and cable-television system at Sneath Lane and Cherry Avenue to the Rhoder Electric Inc. on a low bid of $11,878. Engineers' estimates had come to $16,000.

Permits to operate fireworks stands for the Fourth of July were given to local non-profit organizations that had applied before the March 15 deadline. These included St. Robert's Men's Club, Cub Pack 72 Parents; Crystal Springs Chapter of Junior Women, San Bruno Lions

Pacifica to Study EAP Beautification

Pacifica's officials and members of Ecology Action of Pacifica (EAP) Monday agreed to a 60-day study period on how best to beautify the EAP recycling center at San Pedro Road and Highway 1.

EAP supporters were out en masse because they were told that a fence was being required around the center, both to beautify the area and to prevent the center from bing used as a general dumping ground for passersby.

Mrs. Janice Fulford, council candidate, read a two-page letter in which she said she hoped the council and the city's planning commissioners would "begin to have some realization of the unique benefits which EAP is bestowing, voluntarily, on Pacifica."

She offered seven suggestions, which included a proposal that the city become actively involved in the EAP efforts.

Councilman Nick Gust said, "This has to be your project. You wouldn't be getting the response you're getting if the city did get involved."

He said the city would be glad to help and he would in fact propose a motion that the city purchase the necessary fencing for the EAP group to install.

"You must admit that three or four times a week, it (the center) is an unsightly mess. If it were a private business, it would be closed up," he said.

Mayor Grace McCarthy said the council's only intention is to get rid of the unsightly items (such as old couches) dropped at the ecology center by people who should call a non-profit organization to pick up such unwanted items.

"The city is willing to recycle," she said.

Councilman Stan Farber sug-

Outfall-Pier Bids Sought

Pacifica officials on Monday authorized a call for bids on that city's $1.5 million fishing pier and combination sewer outfall line.

Final plans and specifications have been submitted to all necessary agencies and governmental bodies, and bid opening is scheduled for May 1.

The city will have to pay $290,000 toward the project, which City Manager James Swayne called "innovative funding techniques."

He explained that in addition to the city, there were four other entities helping to fund the project. These include (with rough figures) the Wildlife Conservation Board ($500,000), the Federal Bureau of Outdoor Recreation ($250,000) the Environmental Protection Agency ($360,000) and the Storm Relief agency ($100,000).

One criticism was voiced concerning the "dislike" for the shelter design at the base of the L-shaped pier, which will be in the Sharp Park subdivision at Santa Rosa Avenue.

Length of the pier is as yet unknown, since it will be built in increments of 60 feet and length will depend on amount of the actual bid. "The bid will come in and then we'll know the length," quipped City Attorney John Sherman.

The Ferver Engineering Company designed and prepared contract plans and specifications for the pier, and Moffatt and Nicholl Engineers designed and prepared contract plans and specifications for the adjoining sewer outfall line, which by law has to run out to a 26-foot depth minimum.

South San Francisco Policemen and Firemen Parity Pact Reached

After two years and $884.90 it has been agreed that parity between South San Francisco's policemen and firemen exists only in terms of money, and not in hours of work.

That decision was reached this week by Arnold O. Anderson, arbitrator of labor-management disputes from Orinda. It means policemen do not get reduced work hours as the firemen did two years ago.

Councilmen agreed to hire Anderson at $200 a day in April of last year after earlier atempts at mediation had bogged down.

Anderson said, "the facts in the case are not in serious dispute. It's the interpretation or meaning to be placed on the facts which has brought about this arbitration."

He said "Parity, other than pay, has not been established. As over-all parity has not been established, it can't be broken."

During the 1970-71 wage negotiations, the memorandum of understanding with the police said that the issue of parity between the police and fire departments regarding work hours, wages and benefits would be submitted to mediation.

After that time, police officer representatives indicated that if the council would make a decision one way or another as to whether parity did in fact exist, or did not exist, the officers would conclude their negotiations and the matter would be considered closed for the (1970-71) year. They wanted either reduced hours to 37½ a week, or in lieu of that, monetary compensation. But more than that they wanted a policy statement on parity.

The policemen at that time reminded the then-mayor Patrick Ahern and Councilman Frank Bertucelli that they had on several occasions said that as long as they were on the council there would be parity.

Councilmen made no comment, other than to say they would study the suggestions.

During those 1970-71 budget sessions, Ahern was on an austerity campaign. He cut down on overtime, chopped personnel requests and took away department heads' $50 car allowance.

He was challenged by Councilman Frank Mammini, but received full support from Councilmen Frank Bertucelli and William Borba. Councilman Warren Steinkamp was on vacation at this time.

Effective January 1, 1971, the working hours of the firemen were reduced from 60 to 56 hours a week. There was no similar decrease of hours, or an increase in pay, for the policemen.

The police position to the arbitrator on this matter was that the federal pay board has ruled that a reduction of work hours without reducing pay (as was done in the case of the firemen) is to be considered an increase in pay.

This is an increase in the firefighters' hourly rate of pay, breaking parity, said the firemen.

The arbitrator's response was that "application of this principle to the instant case is not germane to this arbitration."

For many years prior to 1950, the firemen had a work week of 72 hours, while policemen and other employes had a 48-hour work week.

In 1950, the hours of firemen were reduced to 60 and other employes to 40. Police looked upon this "as a ratio of equivalency" or an historical relationship for parity.

They also pointed to a 1969 adoption of an educational incentive plan, originally requested by the police but given also to firemen, as another indication of over-all parity.

The city's position in the arbitrator's brief was that personnel rules and regulations govern city employes work hours, and "hours of work parity" for police and fire departments never was city policy.

excess, it was agreed, especially if he was on duty.

Riordan, now a crossing guard for the school district, and Benedetti, were the investigating officers assigned to find out what happened to the 12 year veteran of the department.

Witnesses gave officers a description of the car they thought struck Doyle. Police spent all night searching for the suspect car.

The train had kept going at full speed after fatally injuring Doyle. It was later learned the conductor did not know he had struck anyone.

Officers Riordan and Benedetti decided to check over the Line 40 train. They went to the car barn in downtown San Francisco. As they arrived, the train that had struck and killed Doyle was being driven into the wash shed.

On the exterior of the train the pair found physical evidence which clearly indicated the point of impact with a human body. There was no doubt that the train, as it swept past the intersection of Market and Mission streets on its long downhill southbound run, had hit Doyle.

The possibility of a car first knocking Doyle into the path of the train was discarded.

Two weeks later, a Coroner's inquest ruled the death of Officer Jack Doyle was accidental and not caused by a hit and run driver of a private vehicle.

Closely following the Coroner's ruling the Market Street Railroad corporation paid an unknown amount of money as compensation for the death to Doyle's survivors.

The second officer to lose his life in the line of duty during the 48 year history of the Daly City Police Department was Richard Klass who died of wounds received after being shot in May 1966 with his own gun by an escapee from city jail.

Klass was memorialized by his fellow officers. A plaque in his honor hangs near the entrance to police headquarters at City Hall.

RETIRED — Former policeman Ricco Benedetti as he looks today.

Police Sergeant John Kolbmann said the department now plans to memorialize Doyle. A plaque will be installed for the killed officer opposite that of Klass.

Kolbmann is credited with pushing plans to honor the policeman. His research of Doyle has led to approval from superiors to set the record straight.

For years it had been believed Klass was the first and only Daly City policeman to be killed on-duty. Kolbmann and the history books have shown otherwise.

Garbage Contract Extension Delayed

A decision on whether to extend the Pacifica Coastside Scavenger Company's contract 20 years was put off until April 10 by council members Monday night.

The postponement was in keeping with a request of Councilman Dan Modena, who had an excused absence from the meeting.

Ironically, April 10 is one day before the municipal election, and after that day Modena will no longer be a councilman. He has elected to retire from that city post.

The request by the scavenger company is made so that they can amortize payments over the 20-year period to build a transfer station in the Rockaway Beach area.

In a letter to the council, Mario Torrigino, scavenger head, said he wanted to set an annual salary of $25,000 for the two officers of the corporation.

"These salaries are to be increased by cost of living increments," he said, and pointed out they were commensurate with responsibilities."

Torrigino also said the desired return on capital investment — "a return to stockholders" — would be 18 per cent a year.

He said the investment in the corporation would increase as the equity in the corporation increased. But if the rate falls below 18 per cent level he said the city "should adjust the rate schedules to compensate."

In a responding memo, City Mgr. James Swayne said that he recommends a total administrative salary package of $36,000, based on $20,000 annually for the head man and $16,000 for the second in command.

Swayne recommended that the annual rate of return on the investment be 12 per cent instead of 18.

He also suggested that the franchise fee of 5 per cent paid to the city be increased to 6 per cent and that the additional 1 per cent be used to retain a certified public accountant to make an annual examination of the scavenger company books, and report the findings to the council.

"They have no competition," said Swayne's memo," and since they function as a public utility, there should be full public disclosure."

gested that a city ordinance may one day soon be necessary to insure proper recycling.

This ordinance, he said, would probably require households to have as many as four different waste containers: a different one for bottles, cans, wet garbage and tying papers in bundles.

"But nobody will pick this up on a volunteer basis," he said.

Councilman Tony Governale expressed fear of a repetition of complaints of last year over exhibit of a tatooed dog who was confined to a small cage. At the time, the Humane Society exonerated the carnival of the cruelty charge but those who complained were not satisfied.

Public Apathy Blamed For Heavy Theft Loss

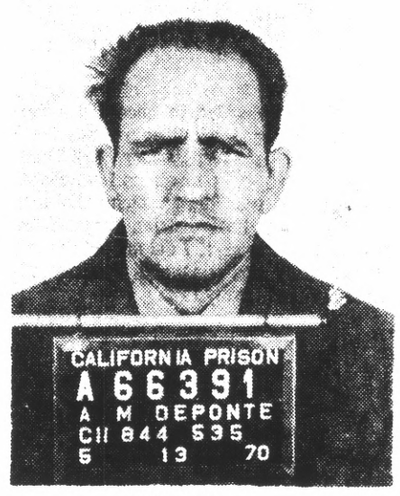
By FRANK LaPIERRE

Public apathy accounts for millions of dollars in burglary losses throughout the nation each year and freedom for countless criminals.

This is the contention of law enforcement agencies at all levels of government today.

Two recent incidents in Daly City are indicative of what is going on in every city in America these days, police captain David Hansen and detective sergeant John Kolbmann feel.

They cite the case of two women in the St. Francis Heights section of the city who were looking out a window one day last week and spotted a man entering and leaving a neighbor's house. They later told police they suspected the man did not belong in the home, however, they preferred not to become involved.



Albert DePonte

And then there was the housewife in another section of Daly City who three days later watched a man tampering with a door, cart out household items, and never said a word. She, too, did not want to "get involved" she explained to investigators.

The burglar who stole tools and other items from the Daly City Scavenger Company lot near city hall walked around the yard for quite a spell munching an orange while half a dozen people watched. No one called police.

"They just don't want to become involved. All they have to do is call police," Kolbmann said. "Wouldn't they want someone to do the same if their house was being robbed?"

Public apathy is making crime pay, Kolbmann said.

There were 768 "known" burglaries in 1971.

Property losses were set at some $225,000. In the first ten weeks of 1972 there have been 122 burglaries.

The records indicate a slight drop in Daly City burglaries.

Captain Hansen credits a new "saturation patrol" in some neighborhoods for this decline, albeit only slight.

No one, except the top police brass, knows where or when this special patrol will converge on a neighborhood.

The arrest log proves the worth of the venture.

While the public sits comfortably back on its apathy, police are mounting a vigorous campaign to crush the burglars.

Another thrust is being made in the criminal prevention area.

A series of speakers' meetings at various clubs is being set up. These briefings will advise people how to deal with such acts when they are aware of them.

"Police can't be everywhere," Kolbmann sasy. "We need the eyes and ears of the entire community to help us in this fight."

Burglars are not a hit or miss lot. They repeat their operation time and again, according to Kolbmann.

He points up a man recently convicted of a series of burglaries up and down the Peninsula.

"My guess is Albert DePonte pulled off several hundred burglaries during his career," Kolbmann said.

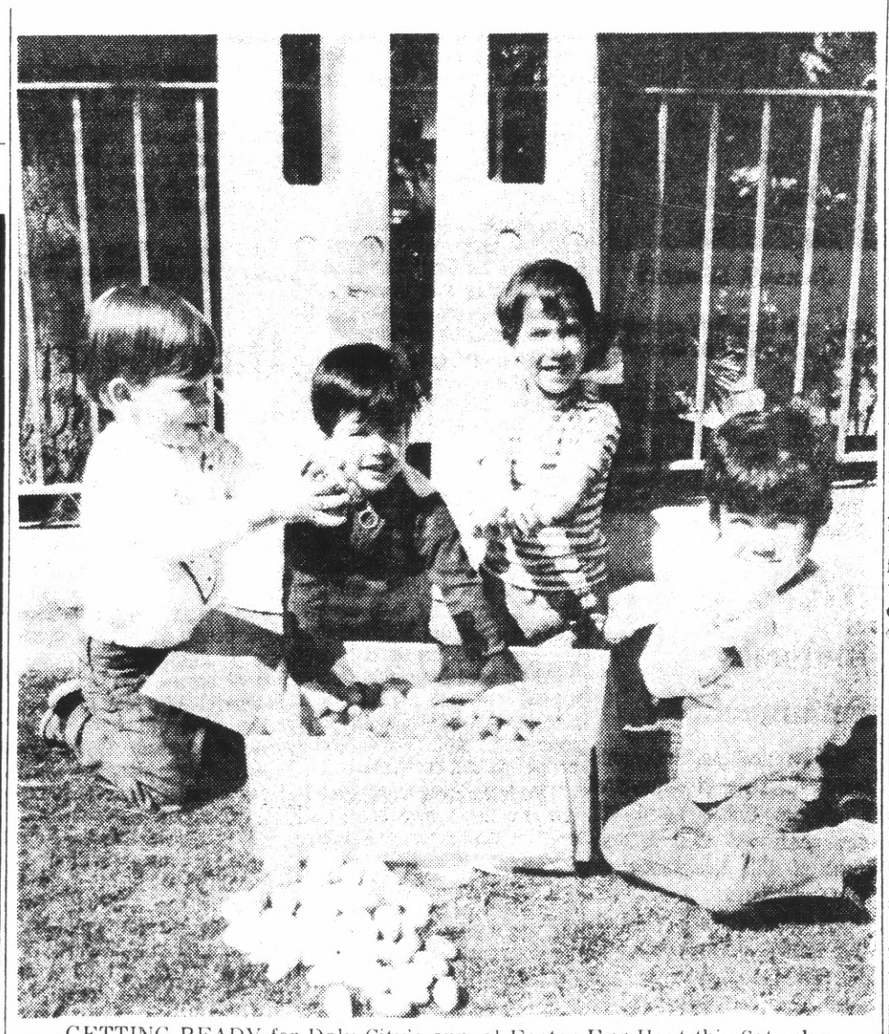
DePonte was known by law enforcement agencies throughout the Bay Area as the "Cat Burglar."

He operated almost with complete impunity everywhere he went, apparently counting on public apathy, the officers noted.

According to police records, DePonte, alias Bert Schindler, 5'10", 215 pounds, 41 years old, really hit his stride in the 1950s and 1960s. He was caught and sentenced and served less than two years.

He was again arrested a short while ago thanks to exhaustive police work.

The public could make the job of apprehending burglary suspects easier and faster, police claim.



GETTING READY for Daly City's annual Easter Egg Hunt this Saturday, are these youngsters: Matthew Cannon, 3; Steve Mirabella, 4; Joey Crivello, 4, and Daniele Feccia, 3. Egg hunts wil start at Midway, Skyline, Colma Westmoor High, FDR and George Washington schools, and Marchbank Park, at 11 a.m. Should it rain, eggs will be given on all local playgrounds Monday, 4 p.m.

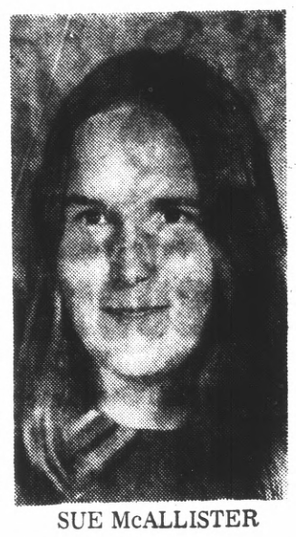
Daly City Council Round-up

TONY GIAMMONA

PAUL HUPF

BILL SCHUMACHER



SUE McALLISTER

MRS. MARIE TAYLOR

There are seven candidates vying for the two council seats in the upcoming Daly City elections on April 11. Originally there had been nine, however, two decided to withdraw from the race.

Each candidate was sent identical questions on three subjects: (1) Redevelopment: (2) How to upgrade Mission street, and; (3) property taxes.

Of the total, five candidates responded.

Incumbent Anthony A. Giammona, 159 Santa Paula Drive:

On the subject of redevelopment:

"Because previous attempts by individual property owners to upgrade properties and businesses in the areas outlined in the redevelopment study have not succeeded in upgrading the total area, I feel the only way to attain the total result hoped for is through redevelopment.

"Redevelopment planning, with the cooperation and participation of the property owners and businessmen, will provide a master plan that allows commercial development that will benefit all of Daly City.

"Practical and adequate parking facilities, undergrounded utilities, landscaping and beautification along Mission Street and surrounding areas, with pedestrian malls, and overall planned development can be financed by a combination of State and Federal funding, gas tax funds, and Federal urban beautification grants.

"Redevelopment is a realistic program to develop Mission Street and surrounding areas into healthy, attractive shopping districts that will attract business and avoid commercial blight."

On holding the line on property taxes:

"Property taxes have been held down in Daly City by the austerity and attrition programs Daly City has been following. To lower the city tax rate would be to deprive the people of some of the recreation programs and services they deserve. Planned development and redevelopment of some areas will improve the tax base in Daly City and keep the tax rate down. Planning for C-1 development and Planned Development will encourage businesses and office buildings, and the like, will help to improve the tax base."

On his basic platform:

"Continued growth, improvement of the present programs in process for the betterment of Daly City and all the people of our community, young and old. I will continue to strive for sound fiscal government through the 'Pay-As-You-Go' policy initiated by the incumbent councilmen.

"I will continue to work to improve our tax base through careful planning and improvement programs with use of the General Plan and will strive to maintain a realistic tax rate. I will work to continue the Joint Use programs between the city and the school districts to provide recreation in all areas in Daly City."

Giammona and his wife, Ruth, have two sons. He is an athletic director at Westmoor High School and has been on the City Council for the past six years.

Paul Hupf, attorney, 375 South Mayfair Avenue:

Redevelopment:

"It is the arrival of BARTD in the vicinity of Knowles and Alemany which is the key to the question of Redevelopment. The terminal of the BARTD line in Daly City with high-speed trains to downtown San Francisco means significant change to the area between Junipero Serra and Mission Street and more broadly to Daly City as a whole.

"Whether Daly City wants it or not, change will occur! The question really is what kind of change? Will Daly City permit haphazard, disorganized changes in land use—or will it impose careful controls on all affected areas to insure that the inevitable change will produce added jobs, added assessment and beneficial long range growth.

"I am not alone in my view that the area around BARTD can sustain solid business and commercial activity. It is accessible from North and South from East and West by excellent roads and shortly by high-speed transit.

"It is the proper responsibility for local government in this instance to strive for substantial business and commercial development and not to permit quick profit, short term construction which will lead to blight.

"The position of residents in the area also necessitates that they will not be disturbed for the wrong type of change. It must be emphasized that change will occur whether we want it or not. What is important is that it be the right kind of change."

On property taxes in Daly City:

"Insofar as Daly City Government is concerned, the tax rate can best be helped by bringing about an improved balance between non-residential assessment values with those that are residential.

"Commercial activity produces sales taxes as well as property taxes and produces no children for schools. The thrust of Daly City policy in the years immediately ahead is to improve this balance. BARTD provides a real opportunity to do so."

Hupf's Basic Platform:

"The points mentioned above are the heart of my position and constitute the most critical question Daly City will face in the immediate future. How well the BARTD problem is handled will have much to do with the welfare of Daly City. It constitutes a real opportunity for a new beginning.

"In other repects I favor 'pay as you go' financing; spending related to need and reasonably required services and improvement of recreational and library facilities in recently constructed areas of Daly City.

"Lastly, I offer experienced judgment in connection with local government in Daly City.

Regarding Upgrading of Mission Street:

"Long neglected, the time has arrived for this area to see improvement. Revitalization of Mission will follow naturally if proper change occurs around BARTD. The two problems are intertwined. Bad change around BARTD will not help Mission Street at all.

"Specifically, my idea for proper land use around BARTD includes offices and commercial activity, possibly including some multi-residential structures of a substantial nature. This means business activity, employment opportunities and a bettered tax base.

"Such development can only result in an improved outlook for Mission Street. Conversely, if change around BARTD is not controlled speculators will acquire parcels piecemeal, generating inadequate and haphazard structures — a transient population — unimproved tax base—no new jobs and no benefit to Mission Street."

Hupf and his wife, Virginia, have two daughters. The former municipal judge, city councilman and city attorney is niw in prvate practice. He is also on the D.C. Library Commission and was recipient of the internationally known St. Thomas More Award in 1968 for his efforts on behalf of the Catholic Church.

William J. Schumacher, attorney, of 375 South Mayfair Ave.:

On the Subject of Redevelopment

"Redevelopment in some areas of Daly City is essential. There are cottages and buildings, built as temporary structures after the earthquake and fire, which need to be replaced.

"First priority must be given to the needs of citizens who are going to be displaced by any redevelopment project. Area residents should have representation on the Redevelopment Agency."

On the Upgrading of Mission Street

"There are two essential requisites to giving Mission Street a "shot in the arm"

(a) "Off-street parking must be provided if Mission Street is to survive as a commercial area. Sources of revenue originally intended to assist off-street parking should be implemented.

(b) "Mission Street should be rezoned to provide C-I zoning for the entire block on both sides of the street. The present design of Mission Street provides for stores that were popular during the 1920's and 1930's. Businesses will no longer invest money in buildings that are 150 feet in depth, as the present outdated zoning provides."

On Holding the Property Tax Rate in Daly City

"The property tax rate can be lowered only if and when: (a) Federal or State support is obtained for police, fire, and recreation, and (b) the State Legislature finds new and more equitable ways to finance public education. Under the mandate given by the Serrano vs. Priest decision, major reform should take place, making school financing more equitable and shifting a greater share of the costs of education to the State level. Only then will the property tax payer beafforded relief.

"As a City Councilman, I would work with our State and Federal legislators to accomplish both of these goals.

"In the meantime, we cannot realistically lower the tax rate without reducing the level of community services.

"There are cost saving measures I would recommend, such as holding the line on the proliferation of administrators, supervisors, and aides. This will result in greater efficiency, but would not necessarily result in enough savings to warrant a reduction in the tax rate. Furthermore, many of the initial costs of redevelopment plans being undertaken by the council will be absorbed by the property tax payer."

His Basic Platform

"I would like to see a greater sense of community in Daly City. In too many areas we are fragmented. Isolated neighborhoods have too little contact with each other, and too little participation in the overall planning.

"We have a wealth of talent in this community which is not being sought or listened to. We have teen-agers whose needs for recreational facilities are not being met.

"As a City Councilman, I would work to build a sense of community. I would work for greater two-way communication with all areas of Daly City. This is their city and their government.

"Local city government is often attached as being controlled by special inferest groups rather than being responsive to the needs of the community. I want Daly City to become an example of local government at its best, an attractive place to live and raise a family."

The Schumachers have three children. A former Daly City police officer, he received his Doctor of Law attending the University of San Francisco at night. Schumacher is a former Jefferson Elementary School District trustee, having resigned to enter the council race recently.

Sue McAllister, student at Jefferson High School, is the city's first 18-year-old candidate.

On the Upgrading Mission Street

"Considering the community as a whole, I believethat there is a need for upgrading many of the structures in the area covered by the current RA Study. As to the question, "What is needed to give Mission Street a 'shot in the arm' . . .," I believe the starting point is with the people involved and, with their cooperation, make a study of the problems, a preparation of suggested solutions, and the formulation of a plan to apply the solutions."

Holding the Tax Rate

"Holding the tax rate at its current level or lower is a mathematical problem directly related to the national economy. All things being equal, an increase in the tax rate is the resultant effect of the inflationary trends. The point of issue is that the people of Daly City should receive the fullest value for the tax dollars spent. I believe that every effective management technique should be used by government to attain efficient operation by the most economical means available. Continued stress of effective management programs is considered the most efficient means of controlling the tax rate."

Her Basic Platform

"As a candidate for councilman, my goal is to promote the involvement and interest of the people in obtaining the most effective and responsive government possible, i.e., 'Good Government Is Everybody's Business."

Mrs. Marie Taylor, responded to all questions in a single release:

"In the matter of representation on the Daly City Council we must choose our candidates by the district and qualifications, not by the amount of money spent on election campaigns.

"Westlake is lovely, but it is not all of Daly City. Other areas vitally need representation too.

"I am a 0 year resident in this area; a homeowner who knows the needs of the people. My years of experience in all phases of real estate, including re-development and low cost housing; my mature judgment and common sense, qualify me to do justice to the whole of Daly City.

"If a man has not accomplished anything during his term of office on the Daly City Council he should step down gracefully and let someone else do the job.

"My three phase program includes work in the following areas: Transportation, which is number one priority for the whole north peninsula; safety from crime, drug abuse, and VD; Re-development, skillfully handled to keep our city from becoming only a huge parking area.

"As a woman I can manage finances; I know the value of a dollar. Let's work together for a better, safer Daly City!"

Mrs. Cathy Smallwood and Gus Sola also are candidates for the council.

Junior College Trustee Claims Board Intimidated

James Tormey, a member of the San Mateo Junior College District Board of Trustees, has claimed that the board has been intimidated by the people connected with the College of San Mateo's College Readiness Program.

Tormey, in a seven-page letter to his fellow board members, stated that individuals in the CRP threatened a demonstration earlier this month if the board did not discard the idea of using the program's facilities in the CSM Horticulture Building.

The building has been under consideration as a possible site for the district's administrative offices.

Tormey said the trustees have so far failed to come to grips with the reality that they are being somehow coerced into abandoning the Horticulture Building as a potential place for the offices.

He referred specifically to a March 3 meeting at which time persons interested in the CRP attended.

"Since the preceding board meeting on February 23, 1972, and particularly during the week leading up to the March 3 meeting, the administration had been advising of increasing tensions and threats of demonstrations on the CSM campus, emanating from the Readiness Program," he wrote in his letter.

"The Readiness Program was present in force at the March 3 meeting, but the meeting then discussed only the relocatable building and there was no reason or opportunity for the program's representatives to talk.

"Every other member of the board at the meeting made statements, expressing an unwillingness to meet or confront the opposition of the Readiness Program and its proponents because of the potential threat of demonstration."

Tormey added that, "This trustee will not be a party to appeasement of a threat of force or demonstration; this is a college community, you'd think we would have learned from history, such as Chamberlain's mistakes leading to World War II."

Also in the letter, which was handed to board members for the first time at about 10 p.m. during the regular meeting at Canada College, Redwood City, Tormey said the use of a relocatable building seemed economically unsound. He added that, "It appears apparent that we can provide facilities in existing structures for the forseeable future."

After the meeting concluded, Tormey said he favored using facilities in the Horticulture Building to house the district offices.

Asked why he didn't speak up himself during the March 3 meeting, Tormey replied that, "I couldn't believe what I was hearing." He said he wanted to sit and let the experience that day sink in before talking about it publicly.

Asked if he felt intimidated that day, he said he did not.

Chancellor Clifford Erickson said he didn't feel intimidated that day either. Trustee Francis Pearson, who originally proposed that the Horticulture site be at least studied, said he did not feel threatened March 3.

College of San Mateo President David Mertes said he felt no particular concern that afternoon and, in fact, he noted that he was highly pleased with the reaction of the Readiness people who attended that meeting.

Trustee Robert Tarver, speaking after he read Tormey's letter, said the only thing he could agree with the writer about was the fact that there has been considerable delay in reaching a decision on where to move the district offices.

"I don't think there has been appeasement," he said. "There has been no threat of moving the board beyond its wishes."

Pearson agreed. "I don't feel the board has followed a pattern of appeasement," he said. "The Horticulture site was not approved because it wasn't economically feasible."

It would cost the district about $51,000 to refurbish and move into the Horticulrue Building, according to administration estimates.

In his letter, Tormey was particularly critical of the administration's insistence that the soundest move the district could make would be the purchase of a relocatable building.

He said the argument that the district could use the relocatable building for four years and then, when state funds were available, might be able to construct a permanent structure, was unsound. He said the loss of the old building plus costs in district funds at the end of four years would run between $20,000 and $50,000 in excess of the cost of a building a new facility.

"I don't believe what I'm hearing and seeing," Tormey offered. "I am upset. This whole thing is an economic fiasco."

The issue of what to do about relocating the district offices (which are now on leased property in San Mateo) came up during last year's tax override election. At that time, the board promised to move the district's facilities to district-owned land.

The switch was intended to be an economy move to assuage voter discontent prior to the election.

150 Applicants Seek Skyline Post

More than 150 candidates have already applied for the job of president of Skyline College San Bruno, a spokesman for the San Mateo Junior College District revealed.

Many of the applicants already work in the district, the source said. The district administration and board of trustees are hoping to name the new president by July 1. The new individual would replace Phil Garlington, who has announced his intention to quit the post effective June 30.

At its regular meeting at Canada College, Redwood City, the board:

—Approved sabbatical leaves for 31 teachers and administrators. The board approved the leaves with the provision that no precedent was being set for those individuals who have already taken at least one sabbatical. The board intends to study the matter of permitting second sabbaticals later.

—Approved school year calendars for all three institutions, including an innovative one for Canada College, Redwood City.

—Approved the use of C. G. Uhlenberg and Company, Redwood City, which will conduct the annual district audit.

—Listened to a report about the paraprofessional programs at Canada by that school's staff.

Boblitt Charges Council Failed Capital Program

Gordon Boblitt, candidate for South San Francisco City Council, issued a statement concerning the council's failure to implement a complete Capital Improvement Program.

"The City Council selected a citizens committee in August of 1969 to do a detailed study of much-needed, citywide capital improvements," stated Boblitt.

"This committee of 41 citizens, of which I was a member, were from all areas of our city. The committee was divided into four subcommittees, Parks and Recreation, Public Safety, Rapid Transit and Public Works. There was also a General Study Group. After approximately 11 months of hard work, the committee presented its study and recommendations to the City Council.

"The committee's study report included the need for a new police facility, many citywide street improvements including repaving and lighting, and many improvements in parks and recreational facilities throughout the city. The committee also stressed the need for replacement of the antiquated sewage systems in the city, especially the downtown areas. It seems that the sewage pipes in this area are too small and add to the flooding problems during the rainy seasons. The committee also reported that the Fire Department facilities were not up to par. These were just some of the Capital Improvement Committee's reports and recommendations," he said.

"To this date, the council majority has failed to take any action on these very important community programs," noted Boblitt.

"The committee which worked so hard on this program has asked the council to hire a financial consultant to do a feasibility study on the cost of implementing these programs. The three majority councilmen, Ahern, Borba and Bertucelli have continually refused. In fact, they voted down such a request which would have been at no cost to the city. Only Councilmen Mammini and Steinkamp took a strong stand in favor of this."

"The law requires that after the adoption of the City General Plan, annual capital budgeting be undertaken, as well as the review of all major capital improvement programs proposals. This has not been done," Boblitt said.

"Capital improvement programming is essential to the implementation of the city's General Plan. The program should be designed for this purpose and scaled to a reasonable level of city services and to reliable financing. It should be aimed at getting the maximum return for each dollar spent over the years ahead."

Pacificans to Press School Plea

Pacifica's Laguna Salada Elementary School District trustees last week briefly discussed their trip to Sacramento, or as Superintendent Jim Brien quipped, "Post mortem — Trek Two."

Brien, in a serious vein, also noted that "We (Pacificans) haven't finished — only begun." He said there is "anywhere from $65 million to $165 million" in the governor's budget, "and we will keep pushing to get it directed to the low wealth districts.

"This is not new money," said Brien. "It is already in the budget."

Brien also indicated that the district would pursue the possibility of a lawsuit. He said he would be meeting with officials of the Garden Grove (in Southern California) School District next week.

That district already has retained an attorney who has prepared a brief. According to Brien, he will be meeting with that district "to get it (the suit) into the courts."

Brien said the suit would be a class action suit, since Garden Grove couldn't afford to pursue it alone. He also noted that a similar suit on equal educational opportunity in Texas is at the Supreme Court level, indicating Laguna Salada could even join in that litigation.

The superintendent, however, said he didn't think a suit "will bring immediate results." He said stronger efforts should be placed toward obtaining the $65 million to $165 million in the present state budget.

Marvin Morganti, assistant superintendent of instructional services, said the Sacramento trip achieved two objectives: the "twisting of arms and minds" and statewide attention on the problem.

He said that the first trip in 1969 had representatives from only one other district besides Pacifica. The Tuesday trip was made by 46 districts.

Trustee Sid Lorvan felt the next thing to do is "to get our legislators to push."

Fellow trustee Wilbur Frye said he doesn't look for any support from the governor's office for equalization. He said he felt there would be resistance to anything introduced as a bill.

"The best we can hope for is another bandaid," said Trustee Mrs. Anita Heyman. She also felt the thing to do was to put the pressure on local legislators.

Trustee Dale Buettgenback was optimistic there would be some supplemental aid. "Probably close to $15 per student, if we're lucky," he said.

Buettgenback said, "It is difficult for someone not involved to realize the game that's played in Sacramento. The average person doesn't realize what's going on."

He said the district presented a good strong case and now has to follow up "so they (legislators) stay aware of it." Buettgenback also felt the district should possibly proceed along some court line itself.

Chairman Lee Riewerts said that "Legislators are not as informed as people might feel. The attitude (of legislators) was as if we were just another group asking for money. They don't recognize the problem, and how well we do with the money we have.

"We need to make them aware we're not overloaded administratively, or that we have overpaid teachers," said Riewerts. "The trouble is, what we classify as a rich district is looking for money, too."

Jail Term For Bomber

George C. Patterson, who firebombed the San Bruno Herald last May 17, was ordered sent to the State Prison Medical Facility at Vacaville by Superior Judge Robert D. Miller over vehement objections by the defendant's attorney.

Patterson, 21, will spend up to 90 days at the facility for a period of diagnostic study and evaluation.

His attorney, Phrasel Shelton, urged the court to follow the recommendation of a supplemental probation report in which Probation Officer R. T. Mallon, who originally recommended a state prison sentence, changed his recommendation to a period of probation and a county jail sentence on the basis of a lie detector test which indicated that Patterson might have been telling the truth when he related that he didn't intend to inflict major damage when he threw a fire bomb onto the roof of the Herald building.

Deputy District Attorney Poling contended that Patterson was "conning the court" in originally stating he committed the act by himself, then, months later, said a "Mr. X," whom he has declined to name, threw a second fire bomb which failed to ignite.

Anti-poison Week Begins

"Search and Destroy" will be the theme of this year's Poison Prevention Week, to be observed through Saturday.

The San Mateo County Pharmaceutical Association sponsoring the annual week, came up with the military-sounding title, but "the principle has application in reducing the number of accidental poisonings among children," according to Aubrey Grossman, a Redwood City pharmacist and head of the local observance.

The association has urged all parents of young children to visit their pharmacists and learn how to "poison-proof" their homes, Grossman said.

Many pharmacies in the county will give free syrup of ipacec and poison antidote charts during Poison Prevention Week, Grossman said. Ipacec induces vomiting and clears the stomach.

Bruno Officers Look Around

The San Bruno Police Department has instituted a new aspect into its in-service training program that may catch on with other departments.

The department is contacting other departments and arranging to have San Bruno officers accompany another city's officers on their shifts.

San Bruno's entire patrol units recently participated in various shift duties with South San Francisco, Daly City, Novato, San Rafael, Menlo Park and Pacifica. And Daly City recently responded with a "selective enforcement" team to ride with San Bruno officers.

The exchange, according to Police Chief Russell Cunningham, allows San Bruno officers to find out first hand that other cities have many of the same problems.

"We're not afraid to expose our men to other departments for fear of losing them," said Chief Cunningham. "We figure we have one of the best, if not the best, departments around."

He said the exchange also tends to give San Bruno officers more pride in their own agency. "We will continue to explore, and expand our learning through other policing and correctional agencies," said the chief.

The exchange also appears to be a valuable means of opening the doors of communication between San Bruno officers and their counterparts in other departments.

An officer can now pick up the telephone, call an officer in another city on a particular matter and say, "Hi, Charlie, can you help me with this?", instead of carrying on a stilted formal conversation.

"It opens your eyes to what you have in your own department," said San Bruno officer Bob Metcalfe, who did shift duty in San Rafael, indicating that apparently the grass is not always greener on the other side of the hill.

Patterns of pro and con were formed about each city, and then compared with the San Bruno operation.

In most cases, the consensus was that the other departments were good top-notch departments, but maybe not quite up to San Bruno's caliber. It's interesting how the individual pride slips in.

Of course there were some portions of another department's operation that would be desired by the San Bruno officers.

San Rafael, for example, lets the sheriff's office handle all booking and processing of prisoners after the initial arrest by police officers. This centralizes records and frees the officer to go back on patrol. San Bruno like other cities in San Mateo County, have to accomplish the entire booking procedure themselves.

Another envy of the San Rafael department is their own crime lab, equipped with a lab technician.

In Menlo Park, the San Bruno officers ran into the use of blazer jackets instead of the standard police uniform.

The use of blazers apparently is a means of letting the public know the police officer is just another citizen, but one of the problems pointed out by San Bruno officers is that rank is not easily observed and at an accident scene, for example, it would be hard to spot a fellow officer for assistance.

Menlo Park's equipment was praised, as was Pacifica's. It was also pointed out at a recent San Bruno training session that Pacifica officers also carry a walkie-talkie for constant communication, and that city utilizes a desired two-band radio system.

The San Bruno officers realize the acquisition of much of this equipment, that would aid in their police work, is contingent on monies available in a budget.

But most officers agree with their chief, who says, "It's how you adapt with what you have that makes a good department."

2 Charged In Jail Rows

Two prisoners were charged with assault and battery in San Francisco court last week in the wake of beatings at San Bruno county jail.

John Rios and Jess Morales were charged with the crimes against a white prisoner Friday. Jail officials said that all was calm in the prison. Other white prisoners were beaten on Monday but refused to press charges.

Pacifica Boy Killed.

A seven-year-old Pacifica boy staying home from school yesterday because of a sore throat apparently found a pistol his mother uses for "self protection" and accidentally killed himself, police said.

According to authorities Scott Allen Rovegno, of 984 Serena Drive, was found lying in the master bedroom with a .25 caliber hand gun at his side.

Police said the boy's 14-year-old sister had returned home from school and found the doors to the home locked. She finally gained entrance through a back window.

The mother, Mrs. Ronald M. Rovegno, who is employed in Pacifica, was at work, and according to police, had been regularly phoning home to make sure her son was okay.

Police and firemen received a call of a possible shooting at about 3:25 p.m. Officers Ted Kendrick and Gary Longmore responded to find the victim, who apparently had taken the revolver from a shelf in the master bedroom.

The body was removed by the coroner and taken to Chope Hospital, San Mateo.

Coroner's officials said the youth had sustained a bullet wound in the left cheek. One expended shell was found beneath the body.

Gemco Awards Scholarships

Three high school seniors walked out of Daly City's city hall last week as recipients of scholarships worth $1,750. As yet, they don't know who they are.

The mystery will be solved when the Gemco Scholarship Program winners are announced at Gemco's annual scholarship banquet at the Cabana Hotel in Palo Alto on May 24.

Twenty-two candidates from the North County, including schools in San Francisco and down to Millbrae, took part in the afternoon program. All participants will receive a $25 savings bond.

Oren L. King, coordinator of the Gemco Charitable and Scholarship Foundation, hosted the judges for the contest, and other guests, at a luncheon at Val's Restaurant to outline the ground rules of the contest.

Judges were Joseph Tinney, San Francisco assessor; Walter Capaccioli, judge of the South San Francisco municipal court; Grace McCarthy, Pacifica's mayor; Fred Mcmmer, president of the First National Bank of Daly City; Charles Whitlock, general manager of South San Francisco's cable television station; and Leo Ryan, assemblyman from the 27th district.

The judges selected two specific areas under the general contest topic of "Economic Principles of the American Free Enterprise System" and the students, sitting in two groupings in semicirle fashion, discussed these topics.

The first matter for discussion was the extension of economic rights and responsibilities as well as political rights available to the 18 to 21-year-olds with the new lowering of the voting age.

After listening to the students discuss this subject the judges marked score sheets which were tallied, and contestants in the process were reduced to twelve students.

The second question was placed before two groups of six contestants each. It was, "What political as well as economic issues are involved in President (Richard) Nixon's visit to the People's Republic of China?

And with the same scoring process, using a 4, 3, 2, 1 point system, the three top point-getters were selected, although not identified. Scholarships of $1,000 for the top individual and $500 for second and $250 for the third highest scorer will be presented to the winners May 24.

The contestants for the contest are selected by the individual schools. And the questions for discussion were chosen four months ago, according to King.

Pacificans Stage Rally at Capitol

It looked like a Fourth of July picnic — about 500 good-natured demonstrators, mostly from Pacifica, converged on the Capitol to demand changes in the way California finances its schools.

As children chased each other across the Capitol lawns and ballons popped, a parade of speakers called on the legislature Tuesday to overhaul the state's school finance system to meet the State Supreme Court's "Serrano" decision and equalize school spending statewide.

In its Serrano ruling, the state high court said variable local property taxes unconstitutionally discriminate against children in districts with less taxable property.

Those children "are victims of a kind of discrimination which should not be allowed to continue in the state of California," said Sen. Arlen Gregorio, D-San Mateo.

But two other lawmakers disagreed about the chances of a school finance bill making it through the legislature this year.

Going to court might be quicker than lobbying the legislature, said Assemblyman Leo Ryan, D-Burlingame. "We are kind of stalemated" after 10 years of legislative wrestling with school finance problems, Ryan said.

But Assemblyman Dixon Arnett, R-Redwood City, said pessimism meant "a cop-out."

"I would suspect that because it's an election year, we'll get a money-equalizing bill before the end of the year," Arnett predicted.

Some of the young housewives and children who made up the bulk of the demonstrators munched sandwiches in the shade of huge cedar trees as they listened to speakers during the noontime rally.

Many carried yellow balloons saying "equalize education dollars now."

A youngster presented one of the balloons and a bag of fortune cookies to Gov. Reagan while he walked down a corridor on his way to a news conference.

The fortune cookies—also distributed to Capitol reporters—carried messages such as "Serrano say equalize education $$$ now."

Lawmakers and the State Board of Education are preparing statewide school property tax proposals they say would equalize spending on education throughout the state. Money raised by the statewide tax would be returned to local districts on a per-child basis.

Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, has introduced a massive bill that would replace the sales tax with a five per cent "gross receipts tax" that he says would enable the state to pay for all public school operation from kindergarten to high school.

Tuesday's demonstration was organized by the Laguna Salada School District of Pacifica and included representatives of districts from Sonoma County to Los Angeles.

Laguna Salada Superintendent Jim Brien said he had no illusions that district would suddenly come into a monetary windfall.

"The reception (at Sacramento) indicated a tough and difficult year as far as expecting additional money for education is concerned," said Brien.

"We did get plenty of sympathy as to financial needs for low-wealth districts. And if any money is available I think we will get it."

Brien was referring to the statement made by Assemblyman Ryan in which the legislator indicated a possibility of $20 to $40 per pupil being available this year.

According to Brien, this additional money would go a long way toward balancing a budget which now is tentatively $300,000 to $400,000 out of whack.

"As far as Serrano versus Priest (the State Supreme Court decision that says the present appropriation method is inequitable and illegal) is concerned, any change (in appropriation method) this year is too complicated," said Brien.

He said he was optimistic that in two or three years the Serreno versus Priest decision would bring "quality education" (through equal monetary distribution) to all districts.

Brien said he spoke with officials of the Garden Grove School District in Southern California, which has been contemplating a lawsuit to force action on the Serrano versus Priest decision.

"Their school board was scheduled to meet last night and vote on whether they would file the suit," said Brien. "If they the suit," said Brien. "If they

But it's back to the drawing board (budget board?) for the Laguna Salada district, which like other districts is required to submit a balanced preliminary budget by mid June.

"We really haven't sat down to work on details of the budget," said Brien, hoping to get some of that $20 to $40 per pupil money Ryan was talking about.

"We will attempt to file it (the budget) without an undistributed reserve," said Brien. Then he added, "Maybe we'll put $1 in it to make it legal."

50-Pound Easter Eggs Ordered

"The largest order I've ever seen" is what Jack Shaw, owner of Shaw's Confectioners of Millbrae called the request for thirty-six 50-pound Easter eggs.

Making the 36 eggs required some 1850 pounds of rocky road chocolate with marshmallows and nuts, supervised by head candymaker Al Huelga.

"We had to make a special mould to form them in," says Shaw. "We've had big orders for 1big eggs before, for one or two of them as centerpieces for hotels, or banquets or something like that, but never for 36 eggs."

Each of the 50-pound candies has been decorated, specially boxed, and shipped off to one of the 36 Pay Less Drug stores in California.

They are to be used as special prizes during pre-Easter contests, Shaw was informed.

Whether the big order is an indication of a business trend, or just a one-shot occurrence, he wouldn't say,although generally the candy market is up.

"The year as a whole has been up a little bit, Valentine's was up, and we're expecting a real big Easter."

"We are just beginning to get into the real 'swamp.'" Shaw said. Easter is always the biggest time of the year for us.

Policeman In Accident

A 26-year-old Daly City patrolman escaped when his patrol car smashed into a signal standard in the middle of the Old Bayshore Highway at Geneva Avenue north of Brisbane shortly before dawn last week as a car he was chasing disappeared.

Deputies Charles Caverly and Joseph Franzoia reported they discovered Officer Cole stagger out of his demolished patrol car and attempt to put out flares when they discovered him shortly before 5 a.m. The two deputies gave Cole first aid.

He was taken to Mary's Help Hospital for treatment of lacerations. The deputies said they did not know why Cole, who lost control while making a turn, was chasing the other car. They reported the impact pushed the floorboard of his car up onto the front seat.

A Near Miss

The choice of a name almost ruined William von Sultzer's gala opening for his San Francisco financial district night club and restaurant, The Orphanage.

Dozens of barstools were delivered to a real orphanage in South San Francisco which accepted them, thinking they were a donation.

The mixup finally was resolved and the stools delivered to Sultzer only minutes before the first guest arrived.

Alameda Is First Address For the Dane E. Ericksens

Alameda will be the first address for Mr. and Mrs. Dane Eric Ericksen (Nancy Jo Figeroid) who were married Saturday at 4 p.m. at the McCullan Air Force Base Chapel in Sacramento. A reception followed at the base officer's club.

The bride is the daughter of Col. and Mrs. Melvin A. Figeroid (USA ret.) and the benedict's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Lauritz E. Ericksen Jr. of San Bruno.

Nancy Jo recited her promises in an A-line Empire grown of candlelight stapeau which was detailed with Alencon lace and pearls at the bodice, high neck, skirt and cuffs. The costume was also accented with lace and pearls at the detachable train.

White and yellow daisies and baby's breath were fashioned in the bride's bouquet.

Floral print chiffon gowns in shades of yellow with moss green velvet ribbon at the waist were worn by all the attendants who carried yellow carnations.

Mrs. Richard Strobbe of Eugene, Ore. was the matron of honor and Mary Wrigglesworth of Stockton was the maid of honor. Bridesmaids included Janet Donegan of Cupertino, Kathleen Hill of Delhi, and Kathy Meadows of Spokane, Wash.

Forrest John Ericksen stood with his brother as best man and David Stuart Figeroid, the bride's brother, seated guests with Dwayne Woods and Alan Travis Butler.

The new Mrs. Ericksen was graduated from Loretto High School and is in her senior year of nursing at Chico State College where Dane earned his bachelors degree. He is also an alumnus of Crestmoor High School and the College of San Mateo.

Nancy Jo's maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. David L. Swearingen, celebrated their fifty-fifth anniversary the day of the wedding.

THE GROUP shown above is participating in the Tiny Tots Swimming Program offered by the YWCA on Wednesdays for 2 to 5 year olds. Children learn to swim with the aid of mothers or substitute mothers in a heated, indoor pool in Pacifica.

ALL BUSILY making the banners that will festoon the United Methodist Church's Easter services in Daly City this Sunday are Jackie Liban, Sandy Terrell, Mrs. James Current, Steven Hansen and Keersten Current.

Puppet Show At Serramonte

Tucked into a little corner of this strife-ridden world is a puppet theater that is unique in the U.S. The name of this theater is The Dragons Are Too Seldom Puppet Theater.

The puppets tell their favorite tales in their own way, so the stories are somewhat different from those you know. The company consists of two puppeteers, Markie and Claire Scholz. They hail from Custer, S.D. and have appeared before children in public schools and head start programs from Maine to New Mexico, from Canada to Colorado.

"Dragons Are Too Seldom" will present shows on Tuesday and Wednesday, March 28 and 29, 10 to 2.

Norman Barry will appear with his "Let's Pretend" puppet theater on Thursday, March 30, 10 to 1.

The community room of the Sharp Park Library, Palmetto Avenue and Hilton Way, Pacifica, is the temporary theater of the players.

Nell Norton

Good morning, good cooks.

Sunday is Easter and our little darlings will be feasting on marshmallow eggs and chocolate bunnies. To think of anything as mundane as Easter dinner is a waste of time, in their estimation. But you and I know that dinner time comes, and we want to have something delicious and festive to celebrate this happy day.

The traditional dish for Easter is ham. But a leg of lamb is equally suited for the day. Actually the entree is the easy part of the meal, it's the salad, vegetables and dessert that makes us ponder.

An attractive way to start off your dinner would be with this salad. It's simple to make, quite colorful and delicious. What more would you ask of a salad?

AMBROSIA SALAD

1 can (13 ounces) pineapple tidbits, drained
1 can (11 ounces) mandarin oranges, drained
1 cup miniature marshmallows
1 can (3½ ounces) flaked coconut
8 ounce carton dairy sour cream

Combine the 13 ounces pineapple, 11 ounces mandarin oranges, one cup marshmallows, 3½ ounces coconut and 8 ounces sour cream. Cover and refrigerate well before serving. Serves 6.

Now let's think about what vegetable we can serve. One attractive way to serve a combination of vegetables is to cook them separately, arrange them on a large platter and pour a cream sauce over all. A colorful combination would be peas, carrots, cut in strips and butter beans.

BASIC WHITE SAUCE

3 Tablespoons butter
3 Tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon salt
1½ cups milk
pepper
finely chopped parsley

In saucepan melt the three tablespoons butter over low heat. Add the three tablespoons flour, half teaspoon salt and pepper to taste. Stir until smooth. Gradually stir in the one and one-half cups milk stirring constantly over moderate heat until sauce is smooth and thick. Pour over the hot vegetables and sprinkle with a small amount of finely chopped parsley.

Green beans Ceasar makes an interesting vegetable.

GREEN BEANS CEASAR

3-4 cup bread cubes
2 Tablespoons salad oil
1 can green beans, drained or 1 pkg. frozen beans cooked, drained
1 Tablespoon vinegar
1 Tablespoon salad oil
1 teaspoon minced onion
¼ teaspoon salt
2 to 3 Tablespoons Pramesan cheese

Saute the three-fourths cup bread cubes in the two tablespoons oil. Place the green beans in the skillet along with the cubes. Combine the one tablespoon each vinegar and oil, one teaspoon minced onion and fourth teaspoon salt. Pour over beans and heat and stir until hot. Sprinkle with two tablespoons Parmesan cheese and serve.

An ideal Easter dessert is this light and fluffy lemon treat. With it's meringue crust and pale lemony filling it is quite spring-like.

LEMON TREAT

4 eggs, separated
1½ cups sugar
¼ teaspoon cream of tarter
1 Tablespoon lemon rind
2 Tablespoons lemon juice
½ pint whipping cream

Beat the four egg whites until frothy. Add the fourth teaspoon cream of tarter. Continue beating the whites until eggs are stiff but not dry. Slowly add one cup sugar, a tablespoon at a time, beating at high speed on mixer. Beat until stiff.

Line a greased 9-inch pie plate with waxed paper. Spoon in the egg whites. Shape to form a pie shell. Bake in 250-degree oven for 1 hour.

Cool and remove wax paper. (Don't worry if the shell cracks, it's easily repaired when you add the lemon filling.)

FILLING

Beat the four egg yolks slightly and place in top of a double boiler. Add the half cup sugar and tablespoon lemon rind and two tablespoons lemon juice. Cook over hot water, stirring, until thick. Cool.

Whip the half pint cream. Fold half the whipped cream into the lemon mixture. Pour into cooled shell. Top with remaining cream.

NOTE: You use one cup sugar in shell and the remaining half cup in filling. Bake shell in 250-degree oven for 1 hour.

The benefit will feature a no-host champagne hour at 11:30 a.m. in the Westmoor Club House. Luncheon of lasagna, salad, French bread and a choice of elegant desserts will be served to those who have donated $2.50 to the workshop fund. An afternoon of games will follow the luncheon. Mrs. Joanne Coniglio and Mrs. Helen Corbett have been handling the reservations.

Lasagna is in fashion these early spring days and St. Andrew's congregation will hold its fourth annual lasagna dinner on April 15 in the parish hall of Our Lady of Perpetual Help, 80 Wellington Ave. in Daly City.

Tickets can be purchased in advance by persons contacting Mrs. JoAnn Russell at 756-6817. Proceeds from the dinner are used to assist the parish's Confraternity of Christian Doctrine program.

According to Mrs. George Sigigie, publicity chairman, Mrs. John Moran, Mrs. Patrick Regan and Mrs. Robert Padreddii, the chairman and co-chairmen, respectively, have selected the Miyako Hotel in the Japanese Cultural and Trade Center in San Francisco, for the elegant affair.

The evening of fun and fashion is scheduled for April 22 and Saturday is not too early to pick up your reservations as the hotel will accommodate a smaller number of guests than have been participating in past year. Resrvation are being sold by Mrs. James Pretti and Mrs. Conard Reich for $9 per person on a first come first serve basis.

The Abraham Lincoln PTA will sponsor a Spring Festival at the school on Saturday, April 15 from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m.

Smallwood Opens HQ; Accuses City Council

Cathy Smallwood, candidate for the City Council of Daly City, has charged that the City Council, by constituting itself as the Redevelopment Agency, had effectively blocked any action leading to a meaningful redevelopment.

The candidate further stated that the "Advisory Board" they appointed is not only sterile, but powerless and that, unless the structure of the Daly City Redevelopment Agency is changed, there will be long periods of inactivity with meaningless proposals of little value to the residents of the older sections of Daly City.

"If I'm elected to the City Council," she said, "I will endeavor to eliminate this farcial excuse for inactivity. The redevelopment Agency should be composed basically of members with roots in the areas to be redeveloped. This goal will best serve all of Daly City." She added that the rapid growth of the Black, Brown, and Asian populations of Daly City present serious problems which could have a disastrous affect on Daly City if continually ignored.

Mrs. Smallwood, who works as the director of training and education for San Mateo County EOC, also expressed great concern for the senior citizens who have had only "token" attention from the City Council.

"To every agency in this city, except the school boards," she stated, "this community is invisible. They have little concern for the part we can and must play in maintaining the political and economic health of Daly City. However, there seems to be great concern about where our children go to school and how they get there since the integration issue has been forced on them."

Mrs. Smallwood has pledged to revitalize Daly City by involving the citizens in the actual planning and administering of civic projects.

She has just been endorsed by the American Federation of Teachers, as well as the ILWU anl the Department Store Clerks union.

Sunshine Garden Cubs Give Flag to Troop 294

Cub Pack 294 of Sunshine Gardens, South San Francisco, presented a flag to Boy Scout Troop 294 during the Pack's March meeting.

The gift was made possible by a Scout-O-Rama award received by the Pack in 1971 for winning first place in the collection of bottles and cans. Cubmaster Brad Thomas presented the troop flag and pole ornament to Scoutmaster Larry Casey.

The Cubs then learned about the ticket sales program for the 1972 Scout-O-Rama from Ted Howerton, Pack chairman for the event.

Del Kienholz earned his wolf badge and Todd Howerton earned a silver arrow for his wolf badge.

Webelos earning awards were: John Casey in engineer, sportsman and citizen; Jeff Lake and Jim Thompson in engineer; Charles Gordon in scholar; and David Butte in traveler.

A knot tying demonstration was conducted by Webelos' Bill Firoved, Charles Gordon and Gordon Gunderson. These boys tied the knots expected of boys entering the Boy Scouts. Charles Scarborough was then roped and promoted by the boys into the Webelos Den.

Bill Firoved, Charles Gordon and Gordon Gunderson were graduated into Boy Scouts. Cubmaster Brad Thomas and Webelos Leader Sam Lake presented the candidates to Scoutmaster Larry Casey. The boys then proceeded over a bridge from the Cub Scout side to the Boy Scout side. Here the Scoutmaster, assisted by Webelos Den Chief Jack Gordon and his brother Mike Gordon, gave the new Boy Scouts their caps and neckerchiefs and welcomed them into Troop 294.

The next Pack meeting will be held on April 11 at 7:30 p.m. in the multi-use room of Sunshine Gardens School.

New Cab Service Seen for Airport

Since San Francisco Yellow Cab company has asked for a rate adjustment regarding its service at San Francisco International Airport, the way is clear for creation of a new taxi service at the airfield.

That's the position of Milton W. Henke, president of the United Transportation Association.

United Transportation, explains Henke, is an association of "about 30 Peninsula taxicabs, and 17 owners, all of the independent cabs on the Peninsula and some San Francisco independents."

In a letter to the San Francisco Airports Commission, Henke proposed that the airport establish a toll gate for taxis at the airport, requiring each cab to pay $1 as a fee for picking up passengers.

"This would bring them twice as much money as they now get from the contract with Yellow," he said.

Yellow's deal with the airport, he said, was a three-year contract signed last April. He admits that this would be a binding document, except for publicly reported requests from Yellow to negotiate new fees.

Henke said United Transportation, as an incorporated association, would be able to sign a new contract, and could provide sufficient taxi service.

"We are supported by some of the big San Francisco independents, who are associate members," he said.

The operator of Peninsula Veterans Cab company with garages in San Bruno and phone service out of Burlingame, Henke also operates "Foster City Yellow," he said. The address for United Transportation is given as his San Bruno garaging address.

Asked about the airport's new "short haul" cab service, Henke said he had been told it was "totally unsuccessful."

LAWMAKER AT SCHOOL FINANCE RALLY — Sen. Arlen Gregorio, D-San Mateo, right, addresses a group from the Pacifica Laguna Salada School District on the steps of the Capitol in Sacramento today. Martha asked Anne Rossi, her cousin, to serve as maid of honor, and Susan Gnam, her sister, was the matron of honor. Secondary attendants included Louise Collom, Kris Eckert and Joan Chiurco, the benedict's sister.

Paul Rossi, Martha's cousin, performed best man duties. Ushers were James Collins, Larry Forst, Michael Chiurco, the bridegroom's brother, and Jeff Sanders, the bride's brother.

Terra Nova Topics

"Tiger Tales, Terra Nova's quarterly news magazine, has won first place in a national competition of high school publications. It was awarded a first place certificate this week by the Columbia Scholastic Press Assn. in the category of news magazines.

High school publications from all over the United States were eligible to enter the competition. Entrants were required to submit a sampling of their published work (all issues of their publication printed after March, 1971). The publications were judged in four major categories: content writing and editing, make-up, and general considerations. The total possible rating score was 1,000. Tiger Tales came through with a high winning score of 875.

The major judging categories were divided into subcategories. In the category of content, Tiger Tales received perfect scores in the areas of department coverage (25 out of 25), feature stories (50 out of 50), and humor (25 out of 25).

In writing and editing, the magazine received a score of 50 out of 50 for content and publication standards, and a 10 out of 10 score for proof reading.

Four perfect score ratings were also achieved in the area of make-up and page layout; staff, masthead and contents page (20 out of 20), paper quality (10 out of 10), effective use of continuations (20 out of 20), and make-up, appearance, and placement of advertising (25 out of 25).

Near-perfect ratings (only two or three points away from the maximum points possible) were in sports coverage, interviews, imaginative and creative feature stories, and timelines.

"We found some interesting content in a variety of subjects — shows some real work. Good humorous work. Some well-written contributions. This is a massive effort well done!" was a written comment of the judges.

Tiger Tales is put out by the Terra Nova Advanced Journalism class. Adviser is Louis Pacini, (also officially known by the staff as "Supreme Commander" and "King". You may see Mr. Pacini's shining countenance in a top. His column on the sports page of this newspaper.

Jack Wilson Seeks Labor Backing

Democrats may willingly give up a sure seat to a Republican, according to businessman Jack Wilson, who will oppose Leo Ryan if he wins the primary nomination for Congress.

He reports that he was asked by the Committee on Political Education (COPE) to be interviewed by members of the AFL-CIO last saturday at the Electricians' Hall in San Mateo.

Wilson said that he was told by the union members that they are "mad" at Ryan because he has "left them high and dry" and because they have "tried to get him to commit himself but he will not do so."

Ryan had promised to attend the candidates interviews but failed to show up without giving any explanation. Wilson added that he was told by the union representatives that they were "primed" for Ryan had he come.

"I believe Ryan has lost the confidence and support of not only the rank and file working people but also their leaders. This could mean a Republican victory in a Democratic district.

"Obviously Ryan couldn't risk facing the labor union people after such things as his decisive vote on AB 490 for professional strike breakers," Wilson said.

Planners Approve Permits For Defense Laboratory

Use and grading permits for a national defense project lab west of Half Moon Bay were approved Wednesday by the County Planning Commission, which had voted against the project two weeks ago.

Randtron Company of Menlo Park has a multi-million dollar contract to develop an antenna system for use in an airborne radar surveillance program to protect the U.S. fleet from enemy attack.

Experiments will be carried out on a site a half-mile north of Half Moon Bay Road-Skyline Boulevard intersection.

Permits have now been issued for a transmitter on Ox Mountain Ranch and a receiving station a half-mile across a canyon on property leased from Skylawn Cemetery.

The application for the receiving station permit, the first to come before the planners, was denied because it could be seen from Skyline. Randtron appealed to the County Board of Supervisors, which Tuesday over-ruled the commission.

When the remaining permits came before the commission Wednesday, they were granted on the basis of a U.S. Navy letter stating that the project is of critical importance to the national defense.

Cab Driver Is Robbed

A San Francisco cab driver lost $35 and his cab in a strong arm robbery Sunday night in South San Francisco.

Police said Lawrence Madrid, 31, driver for the Veteran's Cab Company of San Francisco, was relieved of his cab and money shortly after midnight at the Linden and Airport Boulevard intersection.

According to police, Madrid said he picked up three fares at Mason and Ellis in San Francisco and drove to the South San Francisco Grand Avenue turnoff of the Bayshore.

Police said a knife was put to his throat and he was ordered to hand over his wallet. They then instructed him to continue to drive.

At the Linden and Airport intersection, police said Madrid leaped from the car at a red light and ran to a business establishment to phone police.

When he came back to the intersection the cab was gone, police said.

Jet Noise Solution Is Nearing

San Francisco International Airport is "over the hill" on the problem of aircraft noise, its director told a breakfast meeting of the San Mateo-Burlingame Board of Realtors last week.

"We're continuing our battle to reduce aircraft noise at its source, the aircraft engine," Director of Airports James K. Carr told the realtors. He said the new Boeing 747 jumbojet and the DC-10 airbus have quieter engines than the earlier jets. The 747 has been in service for over a year, the DC-10 a few months.

Carr gave the realtors a general view of airport problems and achievements. Among the latter is a federal grant for a unique study of new airport solid waste disposal methods that could be of national significance. Airport garbage has a high plastic and acid content not normally found at home, he noted.

The airport is San Mateo County's largest single source of economic impact and housing and industry sales are largely dependent on its continued expansion, Carr said.

He stated that airport-based businesses paid $14,129,797 in local taxes last year, 12 times over the $1,200,000 paid in the 1961-62 fiscal year.

Yes Vote Urged in Bruno Duplex Row

Formation of a San Bruno citizens Committee to secure a yes vote on the ballot measure on the San Bruno city election ballot was announced by Charles Young, chairman of the group. Young resides at 913 Fourth Avenue, San Bruno.

Young said that in his opinion the plan to build 13 duplex units on 1.8 acres of Cunningham Way is the best use of the property and the homes will be equal to the finest single family homes in San Bruno. The two family homes will sell in the $70,000 class, he estimated.

Young pointed out that the owner of the property could go ahead and build eight retail stores and five houses on the land, "but this is no place for a commercial area and merchants of Tanforan Shopping Center, Downtown San Bruno, Skycrest Plaza and Pacific Heights are opposed to any more commercial in the city."

He said that the lots are an exceptional 78 feet wide and the owner is providing 78 garage and driveway parking space for the 13 two-family homes which is better than the average single-family homes in the city now provide.

Young, who is business manager of the Carpenter's Union of San Bruno said that all of the hundreds of residents of San Bruno in the building trades are alarmed at the effort to prevent the project to proceed as approved by the city planning commission and the city council.

"There is a definite need for family living units in San Bruno," Young said, "as only 10 new single family homes have been built here in the last three years."

The first Saturday of each month workers man the station between 9 a.m. and noon to collect cans, glass, newspapers, cardboard, paper bags, milk cartons and vacuum cleaner dust. All items must have been separated into their own classification to be accepted by the recycling staff, Mrs. Krips indicated.

Mrs. Carol Recasens and Mrs. Joyce Edberg have helped the station through its infancy and are now planning to play less active roles in the program. Other devoted workers for the station have been Mr. and Mrs. David Goodale who publish the center's newsletter.

Members enjoyed a quilting party following the meeting, according to word from Mrs. Barbara Wolowic.

Coast Projects Upheld Over Conservationist Pleas

Over the objections of conservationists and residents, environmental impact statements filed on behalf of two Coastside projects were approved last Wednesday by the County Planning Commission.

They are the Denniston Creek water development project of the Coastside County Water District and the East Basin small boat marina within Pillar Point Harbor Commission.

One of the opponents, Mrs. Pat Barrentine, executive secretary of the Committee for Green Foothills, said she would probably ask the County Board of Sumission's actions. She and other speakers argued at length, and in vain, that neither of the reports adequately covered all of the aspects of environmental damage the projects could cause.

The Coastside District had its project about one fourth of the way completed when work was halted by a court injunction obtained by the Environmental Defense Fund and other conservation groups. The court upheld the EDF claim that no environmental impact statement had been filed. The district argued that no such statement was required because the project will have no impact on the environment. The court ruled otherwise, however and the statement approved by the Planning Commission was the result. Whether the report will be acceptable to the court, however, awaits the next hearing on the case, scheduled for March 31.

The project consists of a water treatment plant and a 1.5 million gallon tank for storage of water drawn from an already dammed-up portion of Denniston Creek above El Granada.

Most of the opposition to the district's impact report was that it failed to take into account later phases of the project, which would include the drilling of deep wells along the creek. Among those who argued the point was Deputy Attorney General Donates Januta, who has joined in prosecution of the case on behalf of the state; Thomas Graff, regional counsel for the Environmental Defense Fund; Mrs. Walter J. Schuestrum, chairman of the conservation committee of the El Granada Residents Association; Mrs. Olive Mayer, representing the Sierra Club, and Mrs. Barrentine.

Thomas Jenkins, attorney for the district, said the agency has an obligation to provide water for the subdivisions approved by the county and Half Moon Bay. He said there are presently 7,000 approved subdivision lots within the district's boundaries while the district only services 2,600 units and and could service 3,200 more upon completion of the project.

Graff raised the main point brought out in the lawsuit:

"A lot of people say we shouldn't be building more homes. Somewhere, sometime, some agency has to make a rational decision on which way the Coastside is going to go."

Letters were read from the Association of Bay Area Governments and the State Division of Mines and Geology stating that the impact report was inadequate. The commission vote to approve it was unanimous, however, with the members explaining that they were voting only on the first phase of the project.

Most of the opposition to the multimillion dollar harbor project centered on plans to haul rock and dirt from a nearby quarry to the harbor to build a marina to accommodate 1,100 pleasure boats and 65 commercial fishing boats. Mrs. Schnatrum, Mrs. Mayer, Mrs. Berrentine and others argued that the impact report did not adequately cover that subject.

The commission ruled, however, that the quarry operation need not be determined at this time but can be handled at the time the district comes to the county for a quarrying permit.

James M. Dennis, attorney for the district, said three quarry sites are under consideration, one in El Granada and two in Half Moon Bay.

County Jail For Girl in Motel Death

Georgia Anne Bohlen, who was involved in the knockout drop death of a Redwood City man in a South San Francisco hotel last June, was given a suspended state prison sentence, placed on three years probation and ordered to spend a year in county jail when she appeared before Superior Judge Gerald E. Ragan.

"Stub your toe in any way and you go to the Department of Corrections," the judge warned the 23-year-old former prostitute.

Judge Ragan said he was giving the jail sentence as punishment because of the seriousness of the crime in which Edgar Garrison, 47, was given a fatal knockout drop after accompanying Miss Bohlen and Wanda Jean Studley, 23, to the hotel room.

Miss Bohlen has been undergoing a period of psychiatric testing and evaluation at the State Prison Medical Facility at Frontera, returning today with a recommendation that she be given straight probation.

Judge Ragan, noting that the state report was even more favorable than the local probation report, told the defendant, "You have the qualities to impress people . . . (but) punishment must be meted out."

The judge commented that if he sent Miss Bohlen to prison she would be eligible for parole in three months. With credit for time already served, she must spend nine months in jail.

Miss Bohlen and Miss Studley, who is serving a term in state prison for her part in the incident, are expected to be called as witnesses in the forthcoming trial of Leonard Adams, who is charged with murder, two counts of first degree robbery and first degree burglary in connection with Garrison's death.

A Time Span Is 25 Years

The world seems tuned to a quarter century clock. While the time keeping device is not precise in its operation, it appears that twenty-five year spans can be used to measure modern history.

One kind of world existed up to the end of World War I, another to the termination of World War II, and still another to the watershed of the seventies. Thus, the clock points to 1920, 1945 and 1970 as moments marking dramatically the cumulative effect of change.

These time frames can be used as markers to explain and understand the role of the United States in the world, and perhaps to foresee coming problems and opportunities.

The turbulent passing of the sixties signaled the end of easy American leadership. We suddenly discovered that we couldn't impose our will on the rest of the world, and that our friends and enemies had suddenly "growed up."

Without grousing about the passing of the world that was, let's for a moment consider the world that is. The new quarter century thrusts many imposing challenges upon us.

First, the super powers. The immediate past knew but two: Russia and the United States. Now there are three. The profound differences between two and three major atomic competitors are staggering. It is appropriate that at the very beginning of the new quarter century an American President opened the new and dangerous game with his trip to China.

To honestly appraise tri-polar competitiveness is not to suggest that we and our powerful neighbors shouldn't strive for arms limitation and peaceful co-existence. We should. But speaking very practically, if the United States and Russia were unable to reach any substantial rapprochement in a quarter century of two power balance it is probably too much to hope that Russia and China and the United States will suddenly get this done.

Second, conventional international competition has expanded. As one looks at the battered map of the world, the Near East, the Far East, India, Africa, South America, Britain's bleeding Ulster, even Europe can be recognized as places of actual or potential conflict. Our role as a peacemaker will continue to be important, but we must also realistically admit that we are a competitor. The way in which we will compete will be changed (e.g. new land wars for American troops in Asia are improbable) but existing treaties and commitments make clear our continuing involvement.

Third, our role in international trade and commerce has drastically changed. Japan and West Germany can and do make better mousetraps, and the flow of trade is presently away from rather than toward the United States. The numbers of international commerce (gold flow, trade balance, exchange rates) all tell us that we are still going down and will have to fight our way back up.

In these and other areas, the United States now stands as a strong equal of other important nations. In a word, we are a competitor and our ability to affect the future of humankind favorably will depend upon how ably we compete.

What view history will have of us at the end of the present quarter century cannot now be vouchsafed. 1995 could find the United States in serious decline or it could be written that the leadership of our nation had assured a new era of peace.

Some brooding pessimists believe we are in irreversible decline. They speak of post Armada Spain, 500 AD Rome and 1946 Britain. Their analogies could be correct, but, I believe, are vastly mistaken.

Among other things, they forget that each of these peoples were, at the times considered, living in the past and devoted to preserving the old ways. They also ignore the vitality of the American people and our competitive tradition.

But the warning is there — we have hard thinking and hard work ahead.

EASTER BONNET CONTEST was held Friday at San Mateo Parkside School with these entries winning prizes. Third grade class of Mrs. Vera Blood staged the affair with the homemade hats in various styles and designs. (Post Photo)

Ragtime Back In Style

Now we're going to the devil for sure. Ragtime, that low musical form that breeds lascivious thoughts and sensual physical movement, is back in style.

Its lived on longer in the Bay Area than other parts of the country so its only right that the origins and influences should be offered in a special weekend program by University of California Extension in Dwinelle Hall April 22 and 23.

Classic piano ragtime and Harlem "stride" piano will be performed by five of the top exponents of that period which captured the fancy of the public in 1895 and drew severe criticism until its demise in 1917.

Eubie Blake, the 89-year-old last living link between the two dominant rhythms, will make a rare West Coast appearance to appear in concert on the second day of the program at 1:30 p.m. He wrote the first Black revue on Broadway, "Shuffle Along" and countless ragtime pieces, as well as such hit songs as "I'm Just Wild About Harry" and "Memories of You."

Earl "Fatha" Hines, the father of modern jazz piano who lives in Oakland and has been a San Francisco entertainment fixture for most of my lifetime will follow Blakes concert the same afternoon at 3 p.m. He was a band leader whose legendary recordings in the Twenties with Louis Armstrong changed the shape of American music.

The first day will feature the piano playing of Mike Lipskin, stride pianist, lecturer, writer and authority on piano jazz was a pupil of Willie "The Lion" Smith, with whom he has recorded. Fae McNally, pianist-conductor, founder and director of the Inverness Music Festival will be accompanied by drummer Sam Shafer on the music of Scott Joplin, James Scott, Will Held, Joseph Lamb and Jelly Roll Morton.

William Tennant, a young concert pianist will demonstrate the influence of "classical" composers on ragtime artists and the influence of ragtime on Debussy and Stravinsky.

Under the direction of James Gettys, heroic tenor with the German Opera, three soloists and a chorus of 15 will perform excerpts from Scott Joplin's rarely heard 1911 opera, "Treemonisha."

Columnist critics Grover Sales and Philip Elwood will serve as coordinator and lecturer, respectively.

"The resurrection of classic piano ragtime should no more be taken as "camp" than the recent revival of art nouveau or Tiffany glass. It was misunderstood in its own day to the extent that in 1901 the American Federation of Musicians ordered its members to stop playing the happy music," according to Sales.

"Its revival was inevitable because of the rock revolution. Young people are exploring earlier forms, discovering the folk and jazz roots of American music. Ragtime drew from its sources, African rhythms the most complex musical form we know."

"Barred from universities, "proper" music schools and concert halls, ragtime developed its own folk academy: piano "ticklers," proudful of dress and demeanor, wandered to saloons in St. Louis and New Orleans to compete with the black Giesekings of this new art — Tony Jackson, James Scott and Louis Chauvin. It spread from the honky tonks to the fabulous resorts of Europe."

Citizens Can Help Stop the Growing Wave of Burglary

"Los Angeles, watch us grow," cried Robert Widney, one of California's first real estate developers. "Los Angeles must place herself on the world's highway . . . The people of other parts will come to the beautiful Valley of the Angels to enjoy our magnificent climate. They will come by thousands and will spend their money; and some of them will doubtless fix their homes with us."

Los Angeles has been called the "proudest city in the world." Yet no city ever existed that had a more humble start. As reported by Professor J. M. Guinn, "Of the eleven pobladores who built the first huts of poles and tule thatch around the plaza vieja, not one could read or write. Not one could boast of an unmixed ancestry. They were mongre's in race, Caucasian, Indian and Negro mixed . . ." They were as follows:

—Jose de Lara, Spaniard (or reputed to be one, although it is doubtful whether he was of pure blood) had an Indian wife and three children.

—Jose Antonio Navarro, a Mestizo' forty 3 two years old; wife (a mulattress) three children.

—Basilio Rosas, an Indian, sixty-eight years old, had a mulatto wife and two children.

—Antonio Mesa, a Negro, thirty-eight years old) had a mulatto wife and two children.

—Antonio Felix Villavicencio, a Spaniard, thirty years old; had an Indian wife and one child.

—Jose Vanegas, an Indian, twenty-eight years old) had an Indian wife and one child.

—Alejandro Rosas, an Indian, nineteen years old and had an Indian wife. (In the records, "wife, Coyote-Indian.")

—Pablo Rodriguez, an Indian, twenty-five years old; had an Indian wife and one child.

—Manuel Camero, a mulatto, thirty years old; had a mulatto wife.

—Luis Quintero, a Negro, fifty-five years old, and had a mulatto wife and five children.

—Jose Morena, a mulatto, twenty-two years old, and had a mulatto wife.

Of these eleven persons, Professor Quinn wrote, "Poor in purse, poor in blood, poor in all the better qualities of character that our own hardy pioneers of the west possessed, they left no impression on the city they founded, and the conquering race that possesses the land that they colonized has forgotten them."

Yet they were the only people in the provinces of Sonora and Sinaloa who accepted the challenge of building a city in California, even though the Spanish officials spent nearly nine months recruiting settlers. They suffered the rigors of a trip across parts of Mexico and Lower California.

On the way they contracted smallpox and had to be quarantined. When they arrived at the place they had elected to settle, they were restricted by harsh rules and subject to inhuman treatment by Spanish soldiers. Nevertheless, they planted the germ in their settlement that grew into a great city.

What Franklin Lane said of others may also be said of these early Californians. "Shall I tell you who is the key figure in the arch of our enterprise? That slender, dauntless, plodding, modest figure is the American pioneer."

Two Daly City police officers have made a timely plea for public cooperation in police efforts to stem a rising tide of burglaries and house-breaking cases. They cited two recent cases in which housewives, occupants of nearby buildings, witnessed cases of burglary but failed to report them to the police because they "did not want to become involved."

The problem is by no means confined to Daly City. Almost every law enforcement agency in San Mateo County can recount similar instances.

Failure to report suspicious circumstances at the homes of neighbors is far from practicing neighborliness, but even worse than that it is the kind of attitude that is permissive of crime. People who hold this attitude must realize that it weakens the whole fabric of law enforcement and actually endangers the protection of their own homes.

Fear of involvement is a weak excuse. The possibility of involvement is really very small for helpful information is all the police are seeking. They usually make every effort to protect their informants and if they are successful in catching burglars as the old phrase goes "red-handed," they have no need to call upon their informants further in the case. Even if timely warning only succeeds in having the officers frighten away burglars it is useful as a matter of protection for the neighborhood.

As the Daly City officers have pointed out, professional burglars are not "hit or miss" operators. They will return again and again to an area or neighborhood where they can operate without fear of interference and can depend upon the apathy of the neighbors about calling the police.

"Support your local police," is more than a catch-phrase. Alerting officers to crime is a great part of that support. The police cannot be everywhere all the time and they need the help of every good citizen in doing their job.

Every householder pays a substantial sum in taxes for police protection and it is a foolhardy waste of money if neighbors fail to avail their neighborhood of the protection they are paying for and can obtain with a single telephone call.

Letter to the Editor

Editor, The Times:

Recent decisions by Federal Courts, ordering the desegregation of all schools, has caused much concern among many parents. The results of the ordered desegregation has been forced busing, but any other method chosen for desegregating would probably have caused the same chaos and resentment.

I believe that either forced segregation or forced intergration is wrong because it removes free choice from the area of association, and that decisions in this area must remain with the individual, not government, if we are to maintain the highest degree of freedom and happiness. It has become painfully clear to many Americans that the government intends to remove this freedom of choice from us and saddle us with a maze of programs and regulations which will make us act as they think we should.

Obviously, if busing is required in one area for this purpose, it will be required in all areas, and the people realizing this have re-acted strongly as has been illustrated in the elections in Florida. The President has gotten the message but from what he has decided to do, I have some doubt as to whether he is really opposed to busing as he says he is.

He must surely know that Congress has no Constitutional right to order the courts to make different decisions or to stop issuing any new orders. It is not clear how he intends that the attorney general's office should intervene, but it sounds as if they would just try to get the courts to change their decision. If he really thinks the court has made an error than the solution is very simple and quick. He can order the attorney general and the marshalls under his control, not to enforce the court's decisions or prosecute anyone not obeying their orders.

This would free the schools from any pressure to carry out court orders but local people would still have to prevent them from doing it on their own or reverse present programs. This was a method of check on the Supreme Court by the Executive branch, recognized by Alexander Hamilton in the Federalist Papers No. 78 when he said of the court, "it may truly be said to have neither FORCE nor WILL but merely judgement; and must ultimately depend upon the aid of the executive arm even for the efficacy of its judgements."

He called it the weakest branch and said it could never attack with success either of the other two. The court has been trying to legislate and has been successful only because of help from the other two branches. The President takes an oath to uphold the Constitution not the Court, unless it is in accord with the Constitution. If the President enforces an unconstitutional law or decision of the court, he is as guilty as they are and should be held accountable.

Everyone must judge right along with the courts to know if they are doing their job properly; to do otherwise is, in effect, to turn government over to nine men. All branches act as a check on each other and the people must watch them all.

If you feel strongly about the errors of the court, find out if your Congressman would vote for impeachment and your Senator for conviction. Also ask the president or candidate if he would enforce these unconstitutional decisions and if you don't get the right answers, don't vote for them find someone else. The Florida elections proved that the president and probably Congress are susceptible to pressure. Let's apply it.

HARMON J. HALLETT,
South San Francisco.

Flat of Our Sword

AND THEY'RE IN THE homestretch — May we take the time here and now to offer the flat of our rusty sword to that Daly City candidate for the school board who is tacking his signs everywhere and on everything? There oughta be a law against littering. Air and noise aren't the only things that pollute our environment — there's also visual pollution.

THAT WAS AN interesting Candidates' Day at the Mission Merchants Association luncheon the other noon at the Serra Bowl. We sat at an outrigger table between the kitchen door and the speakers' stand. We got hot air from both sides.

WE'VE BEEN IN A LOT of campaigns, but none dirtier than that which is now being waged in "quiet" Daly City. In its heyday of garbage dump battles, chopping the mountain skirmishes and name calling at public meetings, Brisbane had more class. We've checked out accusations from candidates besmirching the character of opponents, we've heard of sign destruction gangs roving the hinterlands tearing down opponents' signs, and we've even been told there are a couple of clowns checking on window signs. When they see an opponent's sign in a house window they go back to GHQ, pull out the reverse directory and call the occupant. What transpires on the phone is unbelievable. Anybody that would fall for this routine deserves what they get in school and city government. Yes, we DO know the names of those concerned.

DON'T STAND BETWEEN D.C. City Manager David Rowe and Mel Battye, chairman of the city's Personnel Commission. The glare from their eyes will fry you to a crisp faster than a LASER beam. It's all over a disagreement concerning a city employee working out of her job classification. Rowe didn't care for the way Battye conducted the hearings on the issue and Battye doesn't care for the tone of voice Rowe used in addressing the chairman. Ah, well, such are the wheels of government — always turning, churning, learning.

IT'S EARLY YET, but some folks are discussing the Assembly primaries in June. Already there are some uptights ready to descend on Jefferson Union High School Superintendent Edward Morgan, an announced GOP candidate, for campaigning on taxpayers' time. Not true, counter his backers. Morgan is not only using his own time now, when the campaign gets into full swing (after the muni elections) he'll take a lenghthy vacation.

OLD ORIENTAL SAYING (Applies also to Young Orientals)—"Clean up your own backyard before you criticize your neighbor's backyard." Of course it loses something in the translation. What I mean is: Why does the S.M. County Board of Supervisors keep slamming the San Francisco slam in San Bruno when they can't keep their own inmates in OUR jail?

PLUGS ETC — This week I must give the "Splendid, Just Splendid" award to Westlaker Tom Vano whose current photo exhibit is on display at the Bank of America headquarters in San Francisco. Vano is the tops in his field in the nation, his photos prove this beyond a doubt. Trouble with displaying anything in downtown San Francisco is the location—lousy parking. Why can't someone grab the idea and have these fascinating fotos exhibited in, say, the Serramonte or Tanforan shopping centers?

THERE'S A "NEW" GROUP (founded in 1968) called the Hillcrest Community Development Association whose goal is to inform the people in the D.C. Redevelopment area "What to do before the bulldozer comes." After reading the accompanying release we've arrived at the conclusion (re: the D.C.R.A.) that if you can't beat 'em, join 'em. And perhaps in this instance it's just plain good sense to offer to help plan the future of the area, rather than block every matter the "es.ab ishment government" tries to do.

YOU TELL ME what's wrong with letting the Guadalupe [illegible]th Clinic move into the vacated D.C. City Hall at 75 Wellington. Some city officials want to turn the structure into a public library. Frankly, we would rather help the sick. Those persons always dinging the clinic should get off their complacency and visit the clinic at its present Mission Street location to see the outstanding job they're doing. It's ironic that this government has trouble scratching up money to help low income sick people, but doesn't seem to have the same problem finding funds to equip foreign armies. Let's make it perfectly clear, my Fellow Americans, I'm talking about the federal government.

Grass Report Amazes D.A.

District Attorney Keith C. Sorenson has said he is "amazed at the conclusions" of the Nixon Council on Drug Abuse that there be no fine or imprisonment for use of marijuana, that marijuana use is not harmful and that it doesn't lead to crime, and may even deter violence.

"I am anxious to get a copy of the report and find out the basis for the conclusions," the district attorney stated.

Sorenson said that in his experience, fully 100 per cent of the "hard" narcotics users started with marijuana.

"It is intoxicating," he said, "people use it to get stoned, not just to have a social smoke, they are not physically and mentally normal when so intoxicated."

The district attorney said frequent users have told him that they would not want to ride in a car with someone stoned on marijuana.

Law enforcement authorities are in a bind because they can't investigate and prosecute for illegal use of marijuana as they do alcohol because they don't have tests to indicate whether a person is under the influence.

Sorenson predicted that if use of marijuana were legalized, while cultivating, transportation and sale were still illegal it would only "increase problems," especially ramifications of international smuggling.

Sheriff Earl B. Whitmore said that his deputies are not in the practice of seeking out marijuana users, but are after the pushers, those making illegal profit.

The sheriff stated that he is opposed to legalization of marijuana, adding, however, that if someone wants to smoke marijuana in his own home, "what could I care, as long as he doesn't force it on someone else."

For Safety's Sake

PAULINE ENRIGHT demonstrates the only thing needed to secure bicycle at BART stations is a good padlock.

Bike Racks for BART

The Bay Area Rapid Transit District (BART) will install bicycle racks in the parking lots and plaza areas of 27 of its 34 stations, including the Daly City terminus.

Recognizing the need to accommodate the ever-increasing number of bicycle users in the Bay Area, BART directors have approved a contract to be let which calls for the manufacture of an initial 600 bike racks.

These racks will be made of heavy galvanized iron and are designed to secure both the back and front wheel of the bicycle and its frame, using a case-hardened ⅜" steel alloy chain.

BART Engineer Jack Culp, who designed the rack, said it weighs ten pounds and is coated with a heavy vinyl covering so as not to scratch bikes.

Each rack will be an individual unit, clean and simple, and will fit easily into the architectural integrity of the BART stations.

"Another feature," Culp said, "is that the rack will hold a bike vertically as well as horizontally."

All a bicycle user need supply is the padlock — and of course the bike.

DRESS A LOCAL BIRD FOR EASTER

Take your chicken from the oven when it's roasted golden brown. Slip pink and green paper frills over the legs. Arrange it on a big china platter decorated with fresh sprigs of parsley and tiny ripe tomatoes.

So dressed up, you'll know Spring is really here.

This month it seems everything is fresher and better. And tastes better, too.

Especially local chicken. You see, better than half of all the chicken sold in California comes from out of state. It often takes 4 or 5 days to get to your store.

And every day a bird is on the road, it loses a bit more of its fresh flavor.

Since we're local, we can deliver our chicken to you in just hours so it loses none of its fresh cornfed flavor. And nothing looks quite so pretty as a golden brown Foster Farms chicken all decked out for Easter. Except maybe the look on Mom's face when she serves it up.

FOSTER FARMS, LIVINGSTON, CALIFORNIA

EASTER STUFFIN'

6 outside stalks celery, chopped
1 teaspoon salt
¼ lb. butter
½ cup milk
1 large onion, chopped
1 large loaf stale bread
1 teaspoon sage
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 eggs

Cover celery with water. Add ½ tsp. salt and half the butter. Let simmer until tender. Add milk and set aside to cool. Brown onion in remaining butter. Cool. Tear bread into bite-sized pieces. Sprinkle sage, ½ tsp. salt and the pepper over bread. Add onions and mix. Beat eggs and add to celery, pour over bread, toss until mixed. If more moisture is needed, add a little water. Makes enough for two 3½ lb. Foster Farms broiler-fryers.

Pitchers Rule MPL Openers

By STEVE JOHNSON

The Mid-Peninsula League baseball season opened Thursday, and already an elite group of peerless prep pitchers is busily occupied with keeping the scorekeepers' work light.

Nobody is scoring very many runs.

WILLIAMSON WINS

Mike Williamson, the class of the MPL's hurling corps, pitched Hillsdale to a 4-2 win over Mills, Crestmoor's Stu Bringhurst out-dueled San Mateo's Jim Lysgaard for a 3-2 decision, and Doc Scheppler threw a brilliant four-hitter in leading Burlingame to a 2-1 victory over Capuchino.

Williamson struck out seven and walked one in nailing the Vikings, but the afternoon wasn't always full of peaches and roses for him.

Mills scored right away with one out in the first when Dom Puccinelli's long fly to right-center bounced out of the glove of the Knights' rightfielder for a three-base error. Mike Signori followed that with a savage line-drive double to right for an RBI, although he was thrown out attempting to reach third on the play.

After the Vikes had increased their lead to 2-0 in the fifth on a walk, a hit batter, a thrown-away pickoff attempt at second and a sacrifice fly, Hillsdale started to produce.

Held scoreless by Vike starter Gus Profumo for four innings, the Knights finally got to him for a single run in the fifth on Ron Doss' pinch double, a balk sending him to third, and a sacrifice fly by Dave Perez.

Then came the sixth, and away with the suspense. Scott McWhirter singled, Greg Gorang followed with a walk, and both moved up on Bill Winhall's short infield roller.

Mills pulled the infield in, electing to cut off the tying run at the plate. It didn't work. Wayne Bunker rolled a 2-2 pitch into centerfield to score the tying and go-ahead runs, and after reaching third on an error, and infield out came in on Doss' slap single to right.

CRESTMOOR'S CLINCHER

Ron Kohles got Crestmoor an early lead by introducing the second inning with a single, reaching second on a sacrifice by Bringhurst, third on a passed ball, and then stealing home on direct order from coach Terry Christman.

The Falcons got another marker in the third, despite four strikeouts in the inning by the blazing Lysgaard. Gary Corden went down on strikes, but reached base on a passed ball. He then swiped second, continued to third on a throwing error, and scored when George Ama's infield roller was mishandled.

The Bearcats waited until the seventh to get some offense going, and even then stalled as long as possible—there were two outs when the rally started.

Bruce Meyer pinch-hit a single, Bruce Doyle drew a pinch-walk, and Mike Walker murdered a shot into right-center for a triple and two game-tying RBI's. Walker attempted to steal home, but didn't make it. Crestmoor lost no time in capitalizing.

Paying no heed to a 30 mph wind blowing straight in to home, Bringhurst ripped a 375-foot homer over the cones in left-center for the clincher — Christman said it was the first time anyone had hit a ball out there with the wind like that — a truly herculean blast.

Lysgaard pitched impressively in defeat for the 'Cats, striking out seven and walking two while giving up just three hits and one earned run.

Bringhurst struck out five and walked five, and had a two-hitter going into the seventh.

Reasons Why Blue's on his Own

REASONS WHY Blue's On His Own

If you're even mildly surprised at the non-support Vida Blue is getting in so many quarters, especially from teammates, you shouldn't be. And jealousy doesn't necessarily have anything to do with it.

Look at it from the players' point of view. Sure, Vida is a mate and they're more for him than they are for Charlie Finley, or should be. Sure, without Blue they don't stand as good a chance to pick up all the post season chips; so, in effect, by Finley's not signing Blue, he may be taking money out of the other players' pockets. But, every extra penny Blue gets over that $50,000 — if he ever gets it — is an extra penny which won't be in the coffers for next year's raises for the other 24 men on the team.

And then there are other factors involved — like Vida's officially winning the American League's Most Valuable Player title, when most pros know that day in day out performer Sal Bando was really the A's most valuable player — Blue only the most valuable pitcher. And Bando, already in his seventh year, wouldn't dare ask for $92,500, at least not for a couple of more seasons, anyway.

The strangest aspect of this whole saga is not that so many people — both in and out of baseball — disagree with Blue, but that they agree with Finley; a man who most baseball people, and even the average fan, generally look forward to disagreeing with.

Even if one's natural inclination is siding with the employe, Blue, one must stop to carefully consider the fact that in principle, most people seem to be on the side of one of the most disliked men in baseball, and against sportsdom's biggest hero of 1971.

WE RECENTLY HAD A DISCUSSION with a writer who covered the Giants during their runner-up years, years in which even though, overall, they had the best winning percentage in baseball, they were unpopular with fans.

Our contention has always been that it's better to have been close and lost than never to have been close at all. As we've often stated in this space, in answer to complaining fans, would you rather live in Philadelphia with a last place club that has no chance of winning, or be in San Francisco with a contender, a winning club that at least thrills you as, admittedly, it disappoints you.

Aside from Casey Stengel, and the fact that you have to be a little eccentric to live in New York, anyway, we could never fathom the affection and patience of Mets' fans for their team; an affection which carried over even after Stengel left.

Replied the former baseball writer, "That's the point. A constant loser can't disappoint you, break your heart. You can relax and have fun with a last place club. Living with a second place team is nerve-wracking, frustrating.

"Last place can be funny. Second place is never funny."

We hope we remember those words of wisdom the year the Giants finish sixth.

THE METS, incidentally, have three native-born San Franciscans on their roster, which may be the contemporary record. They are: Dan Frisella, Jim Fregosi and Don Hahn.

Suberbia, the flight from the center city, evidently, has done away forever with the days when some big league starting lineups had more native San Franciscans than the Mets have on their entire roster. Sadly, even the "natives" usually move out of the city before they pick up a glove, learn their trade in the suburbs, and never play in San Francisco except as a member of a visiting team.

A SOURCE CLOSE TO THE WARRIORS informs us that not only are the players bugged over Franklin Mieuli's continuing fawning over the possibilities of getting Rick Barry back ("If I were a forward I'd feel damned hurt," says the source — and Warrior forwards are), but that they've little respect for local dailies who insist on putting Barry's name in headlines even though he's playing in New York in another league and Charlie Scott out-scored him all year.

"On more than one occasion this past season," says the source, "one of the dailies had Barry's name in headlines for having scored so many points, while Scott had outscored him on the same night and got nothing more than his name in fine agate in the box scores. One night Barry scored something like 30-35, and Scott scored over 50, yet Scott just made the boxes, and Barry's 'feat' got a bigger headline than the entire Warrior game got the same night in the same paper."

PHIL ELDERKIN, A BASKETBALL COLUMNIST for the Sporting News, recently named Joe Ellis as one of the 10 most underrated players in the NBA.

The other nine were (not necessarily in order of importance): Jim Hawkins, Atlanta; Mike Riordan, Baltimore; Artie Williams, Boston; Bob Weiss, Chicago; Johnny Green, Cincinnati; Happy Gairston, L.A.; Lucius Allen, Milwaukee; Dick Snyder, Seattle; Dennis Layton, Phoenix.

How about Clyde Lee, Warriors, Phil?

AND NUMBER ONE IN OUR PERSONAL LIST of the most overrated players in the NBA is the Warriors' own Fritz Williams. Al Attles made a step in the right direction when he finally replaced Williams in the starting lineup with Jim Barnett, but his sometimes use of Williams as a "game-breaker," a player who can go into a game in a proprietous moment and turn it around, is the only thing which makes us hesitate in calling Attles Coach of the Year.

Oh, Williams goes into games and often turns them around, alright — for the other team. Give Fritz any kind of an opening ad he'll figure out some way to turn the ball over.

He's sort of the Tito Fuentes of the NBA.

DON'T LET THE 49ER BASKETBALL TEAM kid you about being a charitable organization. They demand a $500 guarantee before they set foot on a court.

If we were a pro football or basketball team owner, incidentally, we'd never allow our athletes to play off-season basketball. Witness Cedrick Hardman, Bobby Tolan, et al. Too tough on the legs.

Oh, and why do such high priced athletes demand a $500

Falcons, Knights Play Best Game for Nothing

By CHRIS STAVE

The best game was no game at all last Friday in Mid-Peninsula League baseball.

Hillsdale hurler Al Castillo and Crestmoor counterpart Jim Raymond battled for 11 scoreless innings in the San Bruno chill; the game was called in the middle of the 12th, leaving the contest's status in doubt.

In other MPL action yesterday, Burlingame zapped San Mateo, 10-0, and Aragon downed Mills, 4-1.

Strange Happenings

Hillsdale got its at bats in the twelfth, but Crestmoor didn't, leaving Falcon coach Terry Christman perplexed and a little angry.

"It's too bad, really," Christman said. "It was the best high school game I've ever seen, and the kids really wanted to be able to finish it — both teams. I couldn't understand why we couldn't have our turn at bat — it wasn't any darker then than it was at the start of the 12th."

Both pitchers had thrown to the limits of their capability; Raymond collected 12 strikeouts and walked only one in the 11 completed innings. Hillsdale mounted only one serious threat, getting two on in the ninth.

Crestmoor had men on often, and moved them up often (the Falcons had four sacrifices), but couldn't get anyone across.

Christman is checking with commissioner Paul Hannig to see whether the game will be picked up in the 12th, or whether it will be called no contest and played again from the beginning.

Panthers' Parade

Burlingame's wild man Frank Weber proved again that he has come into his own this year; he limited San Mateo to three hits, struck out eight and walked four.

San Mateo hurlers struck out nine and walked five; they had five errors committed behind them. Burlingame hit the ball hard; and the ball had eyes. The Panthers dropped six bloopers in over second base.

Burlingame broke the scoring ice in the fourth with four big ones. Clark Anderson and Phil Frederico singled; Jim Taylor's fielder's choice grounder caught Anderson at the plate. Weber nailed one for an RBI. Brian Buckley drove in two more, and Tom Frederico chased the last one in with another single.

The Panthers got two more in the sixth and one in the seventh.

Burlingame coach Bob Milano was pleased with Weber's performance, and with his pickoff move. "He got two and should have had one more.

"We made good contact with everything after a lethargic opening. I was very pleased with the hitting — it's not a question mark any more."

Dons Drive

Aragon hurler Dave Marrow set Mills down on four hits while striking out six and walking two. Mills' lone run came in the first, on Gary Bei's triple and an error on Mike Signori's pop fly.

In the Don half of the first, Mike Stafford walked and Kevin Kielty drove him all the way home with a single to center. Craig Brittain singled and stole second; pitcher Morrow walked to load the bases. Les Wong was at bat when catcher's interference was called — bingo.

The Dons added a run in the fourth when Curt Ngai singled, stole second, and came home on George Geranios' double.

Nate Oliver – Base Hits to Bank Loans

Nate Oliver, who spent 12 tough years in major league baseball, says if he had to do it over agan he'd be a very different man the second time around.

Oliver, blessed with blazing speed, was a highly regarded Dodger rookie back in 1959. But last year, the flashy, sometimes sensational second baseman hung up his glove for good at the relatively young age of 30.

Oliver, who lives in Pacifica, wore five different uniforms in his dozen bitter-sweet seasons of big-time baseball. He finished up as a utility infielder in Chicago with arthritis in his midsection and an object lesson in his head.

"You've got to push if you want to make it in the majors," he says in a soft but deliberate voice.

"If there's any advice I can give a youngster starting out, it's be a conceited ball player and stick up for your ability at all times. I didn't and it hurt me."

Actually, Oliver had some hard luck working against him too. In 1968, he played some slick ball for the Giants and was ready to break into the regular lineup. But his arthritis put him in the hospital for a month and the opportunity never returned.

Instead, Oliver has hopskotched to the Yankees, the Cubs and finally the White Sox where he ended his career last August with a .230 lifetime batting average.

Since then, Oliver has come West trading his baseball glove for a desk. He's now a BankAmericard official in San Francisco.

In his spare time, Oliver helps run the Little League program near his home in Pacifica, and is an assistant baseball coach at Canada College in Redwood City. He also finds room on his calendar to be a Big Brother and a Babe Ruth League team manager.

Despite the arthritis that hampered his baseball career, Oliver thinks his attitude hurt him more.

"I was very young when I broke into the majors and I had the ability but lacked the confidence to speak out for it. I shut up too much for too long, and as a result I often became the scapegoat — the guy to point the finger at when a club wasn't going right.

Richard Bechtel, Joe Dougherty and Bob Arata each scored four points for OLM as they broke away from a 3-0 half-time lead to outscore the All-Stars 10-4 in the second half.

In the second half, OLM controlled both backboards as they grabbed almost every rebound. Jeff Tallerico and Kein Dekeleita both hit one basket for the All-Stars.

Joe Herbert and Dean Ralley led the second half scoring spree as they broke the All-Stars' "back" with their outside shooting. Herbert hit three 20-footers in the second half for his total of six points and Ralley hit three of his five points during the same time. Mike Botta, Joey Juarez, Dan Molieri and Peter Teahan each scored one basket for the All-Stars in a losing effort.

The Hot Shots built up a ten-point lead on Vista Mar and then had to hold the Vista Mar five in the final seconds to gain the championship. Howie Harband returned to the Hot Shots' lineup for the first time in three weeks and his presence greatly aided the Hot Shots' cause. Harband scored 11 points and set up Dave Fritz and Gregg Georgakas for numerous baskets. Bill Allen and Pete Clements also played great ball for the Hot Shots.

Three-Man Hunch Crown

The adult three-man hunch league under 6-foot division came to a dramatic conclusion with the Lucky Six downing the Netters 41 to 37.

The 3-man hunch basketball league sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Division went down to the final wire and the Lucky Six went undefeated for the fourth time in succession.

Norm Jang led the winners' scoring, as he has all season long, with 19 points. Frank Ng and Steve Vokenoff scored 12 and 10 points respectively to ensure the victory.

The Netters, who appear to be the only team with a chance of beating the Lucky Six played a great game and the final decision was in doubt right up to the end of the game. Dennis Flannery continually flew to the hoop for close-in baskets and ended the game with 15 points. Roy Reitz also played excellently for the Netters and scored 14 points for his evening's labors.

In the open division, the Half Pints shot down the Buzzards 40 to 23. Bill King was all over the court and shot from every angle as he scored 16 points for the Half Pints. Casey Alwohi contributed 10 points for the winners. The Buzzards got a good game out of both Ron and Doug Lees who scored 9 and 8 points respectively.

Golf Tourney Entries Taken

Entries are now being taken for the first annual Tom Culligan-Rector Motors Masters tournament, to be held April 9 at the Boulder Creek Golf and Country Club.

The tournament will be a best ball foursome and will have a shotgun start at 8:30 a.m. Entry fee is $15 and includes green fees, fizz kickoff, champagne and buffet dinner.

The tournament is scheduled so that the final round of the Masters Golf Tournament from Augusta can be viewed on television. Of local concern to the tourney sponsors is Tommy Culligan III, of the host club, who is participating in the Masters.

Included in the lineup are 49er coach Paul Wiggin and players Frank Nunley and Cas Banaszek.

guarantee to play exhibition basketball, you ask? Greed. Why do athletes like Hardman risk their futures playing off-season basketball, you ask? Really, is $50 a game worth the chance? Yes, if you're greedy.

Pro athletes, you see, have this mania about their bodies being good for only so many years and they've got to get all they can, anywhere they can, while the getting's good — whether it's talking on a banquet circuit or playing exhibition basketball. So they charge you for everything, most of them. The ones who don't, who really do perform charitable duties, should make their sport's Hall of Fame.

South S.F. Seeks Umps

Interested in baseball, working with youth and looking for exciting part-time work over the coming Summer months?

Then maybe being an umpire in this year's Midget League (11 year olds) baseball program will solve your part-time employment woes.

Boys who are 16 years of age or older can become an umpire if you have the desire, interest, and are willing to work and learn baseball from the officials' side.

Previous umpiring experience or playing baseball on an organized team is desirable but not necessary. Training will be provided by the South San Francisco Youth Baseball Managers Association.

(Call Recreation Supervisor Bob Aronson at 588-6200, Ext. 50.)

Warrior Hurler Blanks Balboa

South San Francisco and Richmond High Schools advanced to the winners' bracket with victories yesterday in the eighteenth annual South San Francisco Invitational Easter Tournament and will play second round games tomorrow afternoon at Orange Park.

The host Warriors downed San Francisco powerhouse Balboa, 2-0, while Richmond outlasted Sacred Heart, 6-5. SSF meets the winner of today's El Camino-Berkeley game at noon tomorrow while Richmond faces the winner of today's St. Ignatius-College Park game tomorrow at 3:15 p.m.

Senior right-hander Ric Haggstrom limited the visting Buccaneers to just four hits en route to his shutout. Haggstrom struck out four and walked three and was never in serious difficulty.

Second baseman Jeff Rice supplied all the power the Warriors needed with a fifth inning solo home run to straightaway centerfield off Balboa ace Mike Norris.

South City added an icing tally in the sixth when Rob Goldstein's routine outfield fly was misplayed for a two-base error and Dennis Yamamoto apparently doubled him in. Yamamoto missed first base, however, and was appealed out for the second out of the inning but the run scored anyway.

Localities Thrive In Tourney

Local teams thrived yesterday as the fourth annual Pacifica Lions Easter Invitational Tournament got underway at Terra Nova and Oceana High Schools.

Co-hosts Terra Nova and Oceana as well as Capuchino came through with first round victories, ensuring the presence of at least one local team in today's championship game at Terra Nova at 2 p.m.

The Mustangs edged Pittsburgh, 2-1; Oceana squeaked by Tamalpias in eight innings, 5-4; Terra Nova lambasted Lincoln of San Francisco, 11-2; and Concord downed St. Patrick's, 5-2, in yesterday's action.

Second round action continued today at both fields.

Pinch-hitter Steve Schembri singled and scored the winning run with one out in the seventh for Capuchino. An infield error allowed Schembri to advance to second; he was singled in by Mike Galvin.

Kevin Forde went the distance for the Mustangs, striking out six.

Capuchino's only other run came in the sixth when Bob Trask, Mark Biller and Bob Nielson put together singles.

Jim Romero's 10-strikeout pitching and clutch singles by Mike Peron and Dave Armstrong in the eighth inning gave Oceana its victory. Peron singled to open the inning, went to on a passed ball and scored on Armstrong's single.

Sophomore Steve Shirley struck out eight and gave up just one hit as Terra Nova blasted Lincoln. Steve Humphrey's third inning double highlighted a four-run frame for the Tigers while Mike LaCosta's fifth inning safety capped a six-run outburst that left the Mustangs in the dust.

Both Lincoln runs were unearned.
